Allied Vanguard Lands in Japan

Advance Headquarters Established

Southeast Asia Truce Signed

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RANGOON, Aug. 28.—(BUP)—Paving the way toward a rapid Allied entry into Singapore, Japanese surrender envoys signed preliminary peace agreements for Southeast Asia at 1 a.m. today in the brilliantly lighted grand ballroom of Government House.

(The BBC, monitored by the NBC in New York, reported last night that the British East Indies fleet, led by HMS Nelson, was already steaming toward the Straits of Malacca for the British navy's triumphal re-entry into Singapore.)

Lt.-Gen. Takazo Numata, deputy chief of staff for the Japanese southern area, signed as plenipotentiary for his chief, Field Marshal Count Juichi Terauchi, while Lt.-Gen. F. H. M. Browning, chief of staff for the Southeast Asia Command, signed on behalf of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Actual surrender of Japan's Southeast Asia forces to Mountbatten by Count Terauchi will take place at a later date in Singapore, it was announced.

Browning made a short speech explaining to Numata that the agreements were "to expedite the peace to be signed in Tokyo."

Numata took off his glasses and signed the two documents which were then returned to Browning, who also signed. Numata then applied the Terauchi seal. After doing this, he arose and bowed very stiffly. The other Japanese representatives also stood up and bowed from the waist, then they solemnly put on their hats and left the room.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The United States Civil Aeronautics Board examiners recommended yesterday that Northwest Airlines, Inc., be permitted to fly trans-Pacific routes to the Orient in competition with Pan American Airways, Inc., only United States civilian carrier presently authorized for that area.

An examiners' report on the Pacific case, which must be approved both by the full board and the president, before it goes into effect, recommends that a certificate be issued to Northwest authorizing service for a period of seven years between the co-terminal points New York and Chicago, and the terminal point Manila, via Edmonton, Canada; Anchorage, Alaska; Paramushiro, Kurile Islands; Tokyo, Japan; Shanghai, China, and Hong Kong.

CANADIANS ENJOY AUSTRALIA—Judging from the smiles on these Canadian soldiers, they are having a good time "down under". Stationed in Australia as observers, they apparently believe in the old saying: "When in Rome do as the Romans do",—as evidenced by the "digger" hats as worn by Aussie soldiers. Preparations Are Underway For Main Airborne Landings

From CP, AP and British UP Dispatches

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Okinawa, Aug. 28.—The occupation of Japan is developing rapidly. The van guard of the Army of Occupation, a group of 150 specialists, moved in today when they landed from troop transports at Atsugi airfield, 20 miles from Tokyo, and immediately began preparations for the main airborne landings which will be under the personal command of General MacArthur.

At this same time as the first troop carriers touched down on the airstrip one segment of the Allied fleet, a task force of ten vessels under Rear Admiral Oscar C. Badger, got under way and steamed slowly in to Tokyo Bay. They were preceded by two minesweepers which cleared a channel ahead of them. The little fleet proceeded slowly, and one mine exploded as they steamed cautiously through the mine-strewn waters. There were no casualties.

TO TAKE OVER PORTS

The task force carried a landing party of 10,000 Marines and Bluejackets who will go ashore to take over port facilities and naval installations preparatory to the arrival in the main fleet. This shore party may land some time today.

As the task force steamed slowly to its anchorage it passed the burned and blackened hulk of the Japanese super-battleship Nagato. The badly-battered warship lies half submerged in the bay, and across the harbor surface the wreckage of numerous

Face Charges

Two Arrested After Robbery Of City Store

Paul V. Hortie, 22 years old, and a 17-year-old boy have been apprehended by city police and charged with shop-breaking and theft in connection with the forced entry of Bateman's grocery store, 11053 86 street, last Thursday morning, Inspector Bert Petheram, head of the investigation department at police headquarters, revealed Tuesday.

In city police court Monday morning Hortie pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the Bateman store. To a charge of illegally possessing liquor, arising out of the partly consumed bottle he was carrying when apprehended, he pleaded not guilty, later altered his plea to admit the offence. He was remanded to Sept. 4.

The same charge was read to the youth involved, after which the 17-year-old was transferred to juvenile court.

The two accused were picked up by Constables "Red" McNicol, J. B. Axial and John Musa, at the rear

Atom-Struck City Is Like Picked Bone

By JOSEPH LAITIN

ABOARD A BOMBER OVER NAGASAKI, Japan, Aug. 28.—(Reuters)—Destruction at Nagasaki, second city to feel the terrible effects of an atomic bomb, was almost unbelievable when we saw it yesterday from an altitude of 30 feet.

The most horrifying part was the total absence of rubble or craters. It was as though a giant typhoon had swept the entire city into the bay, without leaving an indication of even where streets were.

The centre of the town looks like a huge parking lot, or like a beach, picked clean.

Charred large factories seven miles from the centre of town were still standing, but their roofs were crushed and windows blown out.

Damage then grew noticeably worse until we got to the port where the town was literally missing.

Visible in the main part of the town were about 50 people scurrying around a large temporary shelter.

They were the only sign of life in what formerly was a great city.

The macabre atmosphere was emphasized when a huge flock of birds rose up from the city as this bomber thundered over.

Manitoba Election Likely in October

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28.—(CP)—The Winnipeg Free Press in a news-page story yesterday forecast Manitoba's coalition government will call a fall election, possibly in October.

The newspaper said that the forecast is based upon deductions drawn from recent and coming events, particularly those dealing with the Dominion-provincial conference.

"Those who profess to be expert at reading political barometers . . . are sure it will be held not later than October, rather than next spring when the life of the 21st legislature expires. . ."

It was the view of political observers that Premier Stuart S. Garson would prefer a fall election so that Manitoba would be in a position to go ahead with Dominion-provincial conference discussions, now adjourned, without the necessity of seeking a postponement to election campaign.

In the 55-member house, government-coalition supporters number 43, including Liberal-Progressives, Conservatives, Social Credit and Independents. The anti-coalition opposition numbers nine, including CCF, Independent Conservative, Labor Progressive and Independents. There are three vacancies.

Denies Charges Of Destruction

CALGARY, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Charges that valuable RCAF radar and radio equipment were being destroyed at the Air Force station at Rowell, Alta., were termed "perfect nonsense" by Hon. Colin P. Gibson, minister of national defence for air in a long-distance telephone interview last night.

The charges were made Sunday by Arthur H. Wray, MLA for Banff-Cochrane.

Mr. Gibson said he had seen reports of Mr. Wray's charges in Ottawa newspapers and had ordered an investigation. "The Air Force does not destroy anything of value," Mr. Gibson said.

Told that numerous charges of destruction at other Air Force and Army stations in the province were being heard, Mr. Gibson commented: "Oh, I know that these charges and rumors are circulating all over, but when investigated they are found to have no substantiation."

Pending New Policy

Canada Will Continue Shipping Britain Food

By CHESTER BLOOM

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Aug. 28—Cablegrams are now being exchanged between the Canadian departments of finance and trade with their opposite numbers in Britain to arrange an interim period of continuing shipments of Canadian food and supplies to Britain pending determination of the Canadian Mutual Aid situation.

The cabinet has under consideration interpretation of the Mutual Aid Act to decide whether it terminated simultaneously with the end of hostilities with Japan.

According to the wording of one clause of the act, food and supplies for the joint and effective prosecution of the war were to be supplied to Britain by the Canadian government. This might indicate that Mutual Aid ended legally with the effective end of Jap resistance. However, another clause in the act refers to mutual aid as an effective aid in the establishment of peace.

HAS NOT ENDED

Under the latter interpretation, the act may be kept in operation until peace terms with the axis

Statement Soon On Universities' Army Training

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—(CP)—A statement of policy on post-war military training in Canada's university training is being prepared and will be announced within a few days, it was reliably learned here yesterday.

It is possible the announcement will contain a hint of the Dominion's general post-war military policy as it relates to returning officers and men for both the permanent and non-permanent forces.

Official circles were silent as to what the statement would contain.

Tribunal Findings Against Sask. Govt.

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley announced today that two members of the Exchequer Court will sit as judge under the seed grain loan dispute with the Province of Saskatchewan had found in favor of the Dominion. Frank Ahern, Saskatchewan government nominee on the tribunal dissented and found in favor of the province.

The dispute concerned the Dominion's right to set-off moneys due to the province under the overtime tax agreements against moneys claimed as owing to it by the province under seed grain loan guarantees.

The chairman, Mr. Justice J. G. Gillanders of the supreme court of Ontario, and the Dominion nominee on the tribunal, George H. Sicey of Edmonton, found the Dominion had the right to set-off and did not violate the taxation agreement in so doing.

Mr. Scott held no right of set-off existed and in withholding the money due under the tax agreement the Dominion had contravened its terms.

The total amount involved is $16,458,852.

Alberta Increases Ration of Liquor

Hard liquor ration in Alberta will be 52 ounces in September, four times the amount allowed each permittee in August, it was announced Tuesday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, acting premier.

Wine and beer rations for September will remain as at present, 26 ounces of wine and 24 small bottles of beer.

Present strength and price of spirits will remain the same, "for the time being."

Increase in the hard liquor ration follows removal of restrictions in respect to purchase of spirits by the Alberta Liquor Control Board. The restrictions were lifted by the Dominion government Aug. 3, after being in force since Dec. 16, 1942.

Beer restrictions, also imposed in 1942, were removed in March, 1944.

LIMITED PURCHASES

The restrictions applied on purchases of liquors by the liquor control board, and limited these purchases to 70 per cent of spirits, 80 per cent of wine, and 90 per cent of beer bought by the permittee during a base year set by Ottawa.

Permit-holders who bought 26 ounces of hard liquor in August, cancelling both August and September purchases on their permit, will be allowed to buy 39 ounces

New Wheat Policy To Be Known Soon

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Decision of the wheat committee of the cabinet on the 1945-46 policy of wheat marketing may be reached this week-end or early next week, Trade Minister MacKinnon, chairman, said today, but there is no likelihood of permitting resumption of trading in wheat futures in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The wheat committee is composed of Mr. MacKinnon, Finance Minister Ilsley and Agriculture Minister Gardiner. During the Dominion-Provincial Conference, members of the wheat board discussed the new policy with the provincial premiers and final decisions are expected shortly after Mr. Gardiner returns from the prairies Thursday.

The most important decision the committee has under consideration is said to be the price Canada will receive for wheat shipped to Britain and other countries. During the crop year which ended July 31, the price was $1.55 per bushel basis No. 1 Northern, at the head of the lakes. This is considerably under world prices in the open market at Chicago.

Wheat growers get $1.25 a bushel basis No. 1 Northern, at the head of the lakes but also receive participating certificates if the board makes a profit on any one crop.

Speed Release Of Servicemen For Vital Jobs

By CHESTER BLOOM

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—More speedy release of men from the Canadian army to aid especially in house-building was announced by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, this morning.

Also included in such army releases will be men in the lumber and wood industry, mining, work in packing plants, lumber production and in the fishing industry, while the textile industries, fuel industries such as harvesting, and food canning and processing factories.

The army will release specific men who are needed and where they are needed.

National defence headquarters has prepared lists of men in the army, airforce, commandos, navy and auxiliary services who are to be released by reason of service, age, or those who are experienced in the latest fields of industry.

The instructions state that only in the most exceptional circumstances may the exigencies of the service be permitted to interfere with discharges in both cases.

While the "time of first step" policy is to be adhered to where a man is needed in his present employment, exceptions will be made under this policy, he is to be granted leave of absence without pay and allowances and will be given a guarantee that his employment will be restored, will retain all they earn.

To Announce Plan Of Demobilization

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—(CP)—A cabinet announcement on demobilization and readjustment of Canada's armed forces to peace-time conditions will be made this week-end, was learned reliably here today.

The announcement is expected to be made in the form of a series of charges from the three services and give some hint as to the size and shape of the permanent continuing forces.

It also will probably give an answer to the questions as to whether Canada will be represented in the occupation of Japan.

It is also expected to be announced that Canadian prisoner liberation and the anti-aircraft cruiser Prince Albert already in the Pacific will be used in the occupation of Japan.

The Prince Albert is the Canadian cruiser operable by Canada's navy personnel in the Pacific service.

nations are finally determined. It is therefore incorrect, as stated in some Toronto newspapers, that Canadian mutual aid came to an end a week ago Saturday. The cabinet is wrestling with the point now.

Another point stated in some Toronto despatches is that Canada will supersede mutual aid with a long-term loan to Britain at a low rate of interest, similar to the proposals now being made by lend-lease administrator Crowley in the United States. The Canadian suggestion, according to these despatches, differs from the American in that such a loan would carry a clause providing for automatic extension at its termination date.

Such an arrangement, The Bulletin learns has not been proposed by Canada. The whole subject is still under discussion. Further, it is reported from London that the British are averse to accepting a long term loan from the United States because of its credit implications; that there would prefer a short term loan to tide them over the immediate great problem of demobilization and reconversion of industry pending Allied consultation on the whole picture of world trade. The British attitude toward a Canadian loan might well be akin to that toward the United States proposals—no one here has any information on the subject.

NO SUDDEN ENDING

The British delegation enroute to Washington to discuss the situation will also come to Canada where the whole problem will be canvassed. In the interim, no sudden action is going to be taken in Ottawa, as at Washington, to cut off mutual aid as lend-lease was discontinued without full consultation with the British government and provision for not only softening the shock but providing other means of continuing aid to the hard-pressed Britons.

Nazis' Mistresses To Be Witnesses

NUERNBERG, Germany, Aug. 28. —(AP)— The mistresses of several Nazi bigwigs have been rounded up and brought here as witnesses against their former lovers in the war crimes trials expected to begin next month.

Col. John Harlan Amen of New York City, chief prosecution in the United States interrogation division, said yesterday several of the men were being questioned for evidence to be used against the major defendants.

He refused to disclose their names or what defendants they were associated with, but he said it was a well-known fact that most of the Nazi higher-ups had mistresses and that it could be surmised that the women might give evidence against almost any of the 25 ringleaders held in Nuernberg city jail.

This group includes Hermann Goering, Joachim Ribbentrop, Julius Streicher and Wilhelm Keitel.

Looking over Longmore's record of admitted previous convictions, the magistrate observed that "I think I'd better give you a job out at the Fort" and sentenced the accused to three months hard labor.

LOCKED IN BARRACKS

Hortie was locked up at the RCMP barracks, after a search revealed him to be in possession of a "large amount" of money. City police were holding the other. Police said Hortie's lodging-place was also searched, but declined to discuss the results of that investigation.

It was learned that the safe which was taken from the Bateman grocery at the time of the break-in was located Monday afternoon in the bush at Rabbit Hill, near White Mud creek. The safe had been badly damaged with a heavy instrument such as an axe or sledgehammer, police intimated.

Apprehension of the two men followed an intensive search of the district carried on since the men disappeared in a truck, carrying the safe, shortly after 3 a.m. Thursday. Citizens living in the neighborhood gave police the "tip-off" to the robbery when they became suspicious of the trucker's early morning activities. Investigators were immediately "hot on the trail."

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.— (BUP)—Radio Tokyo revealed today that 36 members of the ultra-nationalistic organizations have committed hara-kiri in mass death ceremonies since Japan's capitulation.

The enemy broadcast said 10 members of the Senjo Doshikai and Kokusai Domei committed suicide by the traditional method of disemboweilment with daggers near Atagoyama shrine Aug. 22.

Twelve members of the Heirokai killed themselves in front of Emperor Hirohito's palace Aug. 23, and 14 members of the Daito-juku committed hara-kiri near the Yoyoki parade ground Aug. 24, the broadcast said.

A Tokyo broadcast last Saturday had reported that groups of Japanese in large numbers were committing suicide in front of the Imperial palace, but today's transmission was the first to give any exact numbers of the suicide victims.

Tokyo also reported that Lt.-Col. Hiroshi Yoshinari, aide to a Japanese prince killed in the atomic-bombing raid on Hiroshima Aug. 6, had committed hara-kiri two days later to "atone for lack of responsibility."

Yoshinari had served the late Prince Rigu faithfully and with "a strong sense of responsibility" for three and a half years, Tokyo said.

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi said in an editorial that Japan was a defeated nation and must liquidate militarism to overcome the "serious political mistakes committed both at home and abroad."

Lashing Hurricane Rips Texas Cities

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 28.—(AP) —A lashing Gulf Coast hurricane struck today toward the great metropolitan Houston - Galveston area, but there were indications the storm was abating in intensity as it moved inland.

The death toll mounted to three as one man was killed in the collapse of a residence in suburban Houston, buffeted by a 55-mile-an-hour gale last night. Earlier two fishermen drowned off Port Isabel, Texas, when heavy seas capsized their boat.

Beside the dead, hundreds were left homeless in the storm's wake and damage was coupled in the millions.

An early morning weather bureau report declared "torrential rains have set in and there are indications that the hurricane is slowly weakening now that it is well inland".

Allied Forces Make Landing Jap Homeland

other Japanese vessels jutted out of the water.

There were no incidents during the voyage into the bay, but as the task force anchored British and American carrier-based planes kept steady patrol over the fleet, prepared to zoom in for the attack in the event of any signs of treachery.

ROUTINE LANDING

The landing at Atsugi airfield as also routine, but before the take-off at Okinawa the main communications plane for the landing crashed on its runway. The ship was a bomber specially converted for the Atsugi mission, and would have handled the main communications between Atsugi and General Mac-Arthur's Okinawa headquarters.

All 19 men aboard the bomber were killed and some of the valuable communications equipment was destroyed, but another plane replaced the crashed aircraft and the flight to Atsugi was made on schedule.

On arrival at the Atsugi base the airmen took over. Repair parties were established on the runways, and a system of traffic handling worked out which will allow for the arrival of one troop-carrier on the Atsugi airstrip every three minutes.

The mass airborne landings are scheduled to commence tomorrow, and officials say that it is expected to arrive with the first wave of troop carriers.

LAND AT 3 POINTS

British and American marines and blue-jackets, now aboard the army transport Gosselin in Tokyo Bay are expected to land at three points around Yokosuka simultaneously with the airborne landings at Atsugi.

The Japanese were told to keep skeleton crews guarding all installations. Word reached fleet units offshore that the Japanese were stripping shore defences, dismantling guns and sweeping mined channels.

At Guam, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced that virtually all the rest of the U.S. Pacific Fleet would join the Allied Fleet in occupying and controlling waters formerly held by Japan.

Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the Allied fleet, was expected to enter Tokyo Bay with his flagship, the battleship Missouri, tomorrow, and plan is scheduled to surrender formally aboard the Missouri next Sunday.

BRITISH IMPATIENT

The British battleships Duke of York and King George V, are present waiting impatiently with the Missouri in adjoining Sagam Bay, also presumably will enter Tokyo Bay tomorrow.

Admiral Halsey gave the order that sent Rear Admiral Oscar C. Badger's cruiser division 31 steaming out of Sagami Bay and into the Uraga straits behind two minesweepers. Taking all precautions, the vessels required four hours to navigate the 25 miles to Yokosuka.

The shores of the narrow straits bristled with 16 coastal defence guns, but there were no overt acts by the Japanese.

GUNS NEUTRALIZED

Crowds of Japanese gathered on the headlands to watch the parade of warships. Tiny white flags fluttered from the neutralized 16-inch guns on the cliffs in compliance with Admiral Halsey's orders.

Nearb, lay the wrecked Japanese battleship Nagato. The wreckage of numerous other vessels was visible across the harbor.

From other Third Fleet units north of Tokyo came word that two Japanese submarines had surfaced off the Honshu coast flying black surrender flags.

Meanwhile, 28 of Japan's remaining 55 warships, including cruisers, destroyers or submarines, were found lined up for surrender in Kyushu's western port of Sasebo.

PREPARE FOR ENTRY

The sole task of the advance echelon at Atsugi was to prepare the way for the entry of Gen. MacArthur, Supreme Allied Commander, Thursday at the head of 7,500 troops.

The first 150 communications experts landed at 9 a.m. (6 p.m. MDT Monday) in three transport planes. They were followed within three hours by 38 more transports carrying combat troops and equipment.

When preparations are complete, Gen. MacArthur will leave the Okinawa staging area for the formal entry into Japan.

Today's operations began quietly. At noon (about 9 p.m. MDT Monday), the light anti-aircraft cruiser San Diego steamed through Uraga Strait into Tokyo Bay, leading a small force of 10 ships, plus minesweepers.

AWAITING SIGNAL

Twenty miles away, around Miura peninsula in Sagami Bay, much of Admiral Halsey's great 3rd Fleet and a sizeable British naval warships rode at anchor, awaiting the signal to enter Tokyo Bay for the Yokosuka landings.

While preparations for the initial landings were still going on the Japanese began worrying about future plans. According to information from Gen. MacArthur on airfield facilities which would be needed in the "Yokyama area" when the U.S. 8th Army lands to begin occupation of the Tokyo-Yokohama regions.

Headquarters announced that evacuation of Allied prisoners of war would be started by ships and planes "almost simultaneously" with the occupation. Prisoners released from camps in China and Manchuria as well as in Japan—where there are 12 main camps—all will be evacuated through Manila. Efforts will be made to start the liberated servicemen

Youth Stamp Day Here Next Friday

A Youth Stamp Day is announced for this city for Friday by H. M. E. Evans, vice-chairman of the North Alberta section of the War Savings Stamp committee.

Commenting on the event, Mr. Evans said:

Recently an Ottawa dispatch quoted Graham Towers as saying that the Dominion government would continue to sell War Savings Stamps and Certificates right through to the end of 1946. This announcement is welcomed by the hundreds of thousands of Canadians, young and old, who have availed themselves of these most convenient forms of saving and sound investment. Stamps will continue to be available at all banks and post offices throughout the province, and in the city they may be obtained at the Stamp Booth and through the co-operation of the merchants at stores in practically every part of the city.

In addition to the personal advantages of continuing the habits of thrift, the country's financial requirements continue to be extremely heavy for demobilization and repatriation of our armed forces, for re-conversion and for social security measures.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become serious. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Merrick or any drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally in a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and serious pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly refund your money.

P.R. Voting System in Federal Constituencies Urged on King

By CHESTER BLOOM
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Aug. 28—The Ottawa Citizen, Independent Conservative newspaper, yesterday editorially urged Prime Minister King to bring in an amendment to the election act establishing proportional representation in federal constituencies. The Citizen argues this would eliminate the difficulty of which Mr. King complained in his recent speech at Glengarry of the intolerable burden of leading an election campaign across the continent while at the same time finding it imperative to campaign in one constituency where opposition forces are concentrated against him.

After explaining at length the satisfactory use for more than 20 years of P.R. in provincial elections in Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton, the Citizen says:

"The general practice with proportional representation is to elect three or more candidates on one ballot. For this purpose, it is found convenient to combine several adjoining constituencies into one larger constituency—as in Winnipeg for provincial elections. In Calgary and Edmonton, each elects five members on one ballot.

ASSISTS LEADERS

"Thus in Alberta's P.R. constituencies, to be sure of election the candidate's concern is only to obtain one more than one-sixth of the total votes cast. Obviously, a leader of national eminence is relieved of the necessity of an intensive campaign. He is free to devote more time to the wider field of election campaigning."

The Citizen recalls that the prime minister himself subscribed to the Proportional Representation Society of Canada 30 years ago, and says:

"It would be asking much of the veteran leader in this new parliament to bring in a measure of effective voting to solve the problem, but in the Citizen's opinion, no one could be better fitted than Prime Minister Mackenzie King to give this great boon and enduring benefit to Canadian public life."

Britain Wants U.S. to Accept Goods, Not Cash

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Informed treasury sources said yesterday that the British delegation being sent to Washington to work out an alternative to lend-lease will do its best to obtain an assurance that the United States will accept British goods instead of dollars in repayment of any credit granted to meet the present financial emergency.

An indication was given that Britain is more interested in a short-term credit than in a long-term loan such as suggested by Leo T. Crowley, director of the United States' foreign economic administration. At the same time it was emphasized that British officials are approaching the Washington talks with an "absolutely open mind."

LORD KEYNES SAILS

Lord Keynes, adviser to the British treasury, sailed from Southampton yesterday on the French liner Pasteur, en route to the United States, and the Earl of Halifax, British ambassador in Washington, is expected to leave by air later in the week.

Because of the shortage of American dollars, the United Kingdom must have financial assistance from the United States pending the restoration of a large-scale export business and the consequent building up of a trade balance.

If the war had lasted another year, the United Kingdom's export business would have been at a much higher level than now is possible, the unfavorable trade balance would have been reduced, and needed assistance from outside the empire would have been much smaller. As it is, the annual unfavorable balance is about (1,200,000,000 to $3,400,000,000) and even though overseas markets undoubtedly are available there are neither civilian goods to ship nor shipping to carry such goods, even if they could be manufactured.

FIRST REACTION

The first reaction to President Truman's announcement that lend-lease was ending was one almost of anger and certainly of astonishment. Now press and public have calmed down and there is a growing acceptance that Mr. Truman's action was necessary from the United States' viewpoint and that "something will be worked out between us and the Americans and we will manage."

The size of the blow to Britain's economy can be understood when it is realized that recently United States lend-lease shipments have represented one-quarter of Britain's meat imports, nearly one-half her imports of butter and eggs and more than three-quarters of her imports of tobacco. During 1944 lend-lease food items alone represented some 10 per cent of Britain's total requirements.

Under lend-lease, the question of ultimate repayment was left vague. Repayment could be in kind or in direct or indirect benefit deemed satisfactory by the president.

ASSISTANCE NEEDED

Britain recognizes she must obtain temporary financial assistance to permit continued importation of vital supplies like food, said a treasury spokesman. What she is trying to avoid is the piling up of straight dollar indebtedness at a time when her economy is critically deranged.

Liberal's House Standing Placed At 126 Members

OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Lt.-Col. A. L. Normandin, author of the Parliamentary Guide, said yesterday that Liberal strength in House of Commons at the session opening Sept. 6 will be 126 members.

Col. Normandin said he had made a compilation from information he gathered for use in a supplement to the Guide, giving standing of the Commons as follows:

Liberals 126; Progressive Conservative 66; CCF 28; Social Credit 13; Independent five; Independent-Liberal two; Independent Progressive Conservative one; Independent-CCF one; Bloc Populaire two; Labor-Progressive one; total 245.

STRAIGHT LIBERALS

Col. Normandin said he had been in touch with those whose party affiliation was in doubt and found that nine men who ran either as straight Independents or Independent-Liberals wished to be classified as straight Liberals.

In this category were Hon. C. G. Power, former air minister, Quebec South; Wilfrid Lacroix, Quebec Montmorency; Lucien Dubois, Nicolet-Yamaska; Lt.-Col. H. Lapointe, Lotbiniere; Maurice Bourget, Levis; J. A. Dion, Lake St. John-Roberval; Charles Parent, Quebec West and South, Phileas Cote, Matane, and Wilfred Gariepy, Three Rivers.

Only two men asked to be listed as Independent Liberals. They were Jean Franco is Pouliot, Temiscouata and J. L. Gibson, Comox-Alberni.

M'Arthur Will Use Hirohito's Summer Home

By RICHARD W. JOHNSTON
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

WITH THE ALLIED FLEET IN SAGAMI BAY, Aug. 28.—(BUP)—Emperor Hirohito's yellow-walled Imperial summer palace, built near the coast at Hayama on Sagami Bay, will become Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Japan, it was learned today.

Looking into the glaring late afternoon sun, I can see the shining walls and the green tiled roof and tower of the palace.

Thousands of Japanese thronged the white beaches of Kalase to watch this triumphant fleet at anchor in the bay, south of Tokyo.

As the afternoon waned the crowds thinned, leaving a few scattered bathers swimming in the surf.

Our anchorage lies at the bend of the bay, where the Sagami peninsula reaches down from the mainland of Honshu Island. It is a thickly-populated region, heavily built up along the coast with homes, beach houses and summer resorts.

Strung around the bend and running into each other are the towns of Chigasaki, Tatase, Kuriyayama and Hayama.

From here I can see bathhouses and cottages nestled under cliffs.

Filipino Used Tactics of Tarzan To Save Child From Japanese

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 28.—(CP)—Home after hiding from the Japanese for three years in the jungles of Bohol Island in the Philippines, Mrs. Joseph Livesay yesterday told how a Filipino who once read the adventures of Tarzan remembered enough of the jungle hero's lore to save the life of her three-year-old son, Thomas.

Mrs. Livesay and her husband, a missionary, went into hiding soon after the Japanese took over Bohol, but the enemy was hard on the trail of the "white couple" and they had to keep on the move right up to a day before Mrs. Livesay gave birth to Thomas. Then it was that Pasa, the Livesays' Filipino servant, took over.

He had read, and remembered, the adventures of Tarzan, so a few hours after the child was born Pasa carried him away to a secret hideout, travelling through the thick jungle by means of trees and vines. The baby was fed on a diet of coconut milk and bananas—and today the tow-headed, husky boy shows no ill effects of such unorthodox eating.

Once the island was liberated Jasa returned the baby to its family, and now, safe in Canada, the three are not planning to return to the Philippines.

Woodward's to Expand

It is a compliment to the growth of Edmonton and an expression of faith in Edmonton's future that C. Woodward Ltd. should announce a substantial expansion of its department store premises here.

According to the Hon. W. C. Woodward, president of the company, a two-storey addition will be made as soon as materials and labor are available.

Logic and history both point to a continued increase in the size and importance of this community. As the point of contact with the gradually-opening North and as an important airways centre, Edmonton should play a vital part in the immediate future of the North American continent.

The Woodward announcement confirms this hope and this belief and confirms them in the most concrete way—to the tune of a large investment.

The Woodward expansion is a highly significant investment in Edmonton's distiny.

Canadian Nationality

A despatch from Ottawa says that legislation may be brought down next session to legalize use of the word "Canadian" as a nationality so that Canadians may so describe themselves in census and immigration surveys.

A very real need for this change exists, for although no one objects to being termed a "British subject," the phrase is much too vague and insufficiently definite for the purposes of the people of a country which has attained majority and sovereignty.

It has long been a source of irritation to Canadians that in census reports and even in vital statistics they cannot describe themselves as the racial origin of their paternal ancestors instead of by their birthplace. In a third, fourth or fifth generation Canadian, for instance, such classification can be frequently ludicrous, particularly where racial strains have been freely crossed in this country.

Thus, the descendant of a paternal great-grandfather who happened to be English, must be regarded as English even though all his other ancestors were Scotch or Irish and were born in this country for generations.

There is some doubt however that legislation is required to change this absurd situation. Oscar Coderre, chief of the naturalization branch of the department of state, has offered the opinion that Canadian nationality already exists under a definition adopted by act of parliament in 1921.

He says that a British subject becomes a Canadian national when he acquires a Canadian domicile which, under the immigration law, makes him a Canadian citizen. If he is born in Canada, he is a British subject, a Canadian national and a Canadian citizen.

If this is the fact, it seems to be unknown to census enumerators and vital statistics clerks who insist upon recording persons of Canadian birth according to their paternal racial origin.

It is possible that the situation to which so many Canadians object is the result of official obduracy and misinformation rather than legislative deficiency.

Whatever it is, the ridiculous and humiliating condition should be remedied with the least possible delay. There is no reason why Canadians should not be known as Canadians and nothing else.

Edmonton's Paving Needs

The Canadian Good Roads Association has issued a statement regarding the traffic of the future which bears a very significant relation to Edmonton's paving needs.

Pointing out that the abolition of tire rationing and the return of new automobiles will increase both city and rural traffic beyond all expectations, the association says:

"Not only will there be far more cars on the road than in pre-war years, but there will be increased mileage by each car through scientific improvements, and much heavier commercial units. Our highways will therefore have to withstand not only greater quantities of traffic but also the punishment of gigantic commercial vehicles, buses, trucks and trailers — multiple wheeled giants taking their part in the economic scheme of things in this country.

"We shall need the best there is in highways everywhere so that this traffic can flow unimpeded and safely. Multiple-lane roads, built on properly treated sub-soil and ballast, and durably surfaced, will be necessary in order to take care of the traffic of the near future.

"The day of the dirt road is over. Paving or consolidating of surfaces is a 'must' from the standpoint of safety alone. Unpaved roads and gravel roads in particular are wasteful and dangerous to users, their dust is not only an accident hazard, but is a menace to cultivation in the vicinity, and to the health of the community."

This statement is not a guess, but a scientific verity. It is based on the estimation of men who are in possession of all the facts and know all the trends. And it brings an entirely new factor into Edmonton's traffic situation.

Hitherto, demands for better and more paved roads in this city have been based on pre-war conditions. The revelation that the post-war period will increase traffic so heavily can only double, not only the force of the demand for paved roads in Edmonton, but the number of roads demanded.

New traffic conditions will render every dirt or gravelled road, not only obsolete, but a menace to health and safety.

More than ever before, Edmonton needs vision and courage and imagination at the city hall to deal with the needs of changing city life.

V

National Clothing Drive

The people of Edmonton are reminded again—as they cannot be reminded too often—of the national clothing drive which begins in this city October 1 and continues until October 20.

The plight of the men, women and children of liberated Europe is desperate. It is hoped, through this drive, to collect at least ten million pounds of warm clothing throughout Canada for their use. Some 125,000,000 persons, including 30,000,000 children must be clothed.

It is physically impossible, obviously, to provide these needs through the usual trade channels. Canadian manufacturers, in fact, could not supply even a small fraction of the total required. The only possible hope, therefore, is to appeal to the generosity of the public for serviceable used clothing which can be spared without replacement.

This is a campaign which cannot be undertaken in a hurry. Donors will have to give careful thought to their wardrobes before they decide what it can be contributed because if the donations they make cause them to buy needed materials to replace their gifts, the purpose of the drive will be lost.

The time to begin this consideration is now.

Edmonton's campaign will succeed only insofar as Edmonton people prepare thoughtfully for it.

Argentine Still Fascist

By CHESTER BLOOM

OTTAWA.—While the Canadian government is not happy in the view that it takes of Fascist tendencies of the Peron-Farrell government in the Argentine, there is no immediate likelihood of Canada taking such radical action as recalling its ambassador from Buenos Aires. In fact, the new Canadian ambassador to the Argentine, Mr. Warwick F. Chipman, recently transferred to that post from the Canadian ambassadorship to Chile, has not yet arrived to take over from the Canadian Charge D'Affaires, Kenneth C. Kirkwood, at Buenos Aires.

The United States apparently has suddenly changed to a "tough" from a mild policy toward the Argentine government. The United States ambassador to the Argentine, Spruille Braden, has just been recalled to take the post of Assistant Secretary of State Nelson A. Rockefeller in Washington.

Washington correspondents regard this as a distinct warning to the Argentine, since Mr. Braden repeatedly lashed out against Fascist practices of the Peron government while in Buenos Aires. Mr. Rockefeller, who had been pursuing a mild policy toward the Argentine, also overnight reversed that attitude just before being relieved of his post as Assistant Secretary of State. He came out with a bitter criticism of Argentine government practices, of the military dictatorship and suppression of free speech.

Canadian official sources in Ottawa are discreetly silent on the whole subject. But it is learned from unofficial sources that no immediate change in Canadian policy is anticipated. While the Canadian government takes much the same view of events in the Argentine as the Americaan administration, it does not necessarily follow that the same methods would be pursued in dealing with such a delicate situation.

The position of the Canadian government, it is understood, regarding the United States recalling of its ambassador, Spruille Braden, to name him Assistant Secretary of State, is that this does not mean such a diplomatic blow as if the ambassador had been recalled simply because of hostility of Argentine Fascist methods.

On Saturday, the Montreal Standard published a number of letters severely critical of a statement made recently by Carlos Demaras, Secretary General of the National Institute of Social Welfare of Buenos Aires.

Published in Canada, Dr. Desmaras' statement alleged that the Argentine is really a democratic, progressive nation and that newspaper reports that it is a Fascist state are "all lies."

Strongest reply was made by Ray Josephs, author of "Argentine Diary," and for five years a correspondent for the Marshal Field Syndicate. Mr. Josephs distinguished between the Argentine people, eighty to ninety per cent. of whom he said are democratic and progressive, and the Peron-Farrell military dictatorship which is ruling them by military seizure of power.

Most serious charge levelled by Mr. Josephs in the letter was that the Peron government has permitted a pro-Nazi German newspaper, the Zeitung, and a pro-Fascist newspaper, The Federal, to resume publication.

Other writers allege Nazi refugees are infiltrating into the Argentine with the government's tacit consent.

Some of Mr. Josephs' allegations include:

Open denunciations of the military regime in the Argentine have been published by 862 of Argentine's 937 leading business, industrial and banking associations including the powerful Sociedad Rural Argentina, The Cattle Owners' Organization, The Chamber of Commerce of the federal capital and leading cities and every kind of workers, trade union and industrial groups.

This week six of the nation's leading universities were closed in protest against the government's actions.

Thousands of primary teachers have walked out of their classes.

When the press or radio dares to say anything displeasing to Peron or his front man, President Farrell, and the colonel's clique, they are quickly stopped.

"True," says Mr. Josephs, "American reporters are now allowed to file what they please. The Argentine government was forced to lift censorship when, at the Mexico City conference of American foreign ministers, it signed certain pledges in order to obtain an invitation to the San Francisco world conference. But again and again, correspondents like Arnold Cortesi of The Times and Joseph Newman of the Herald Tribune of New York have been threatened.

"Argentine newspapers, themselves, are unable to report the truth, have gotten around the ban by reporting stories from U.S. publications. They, too, have been forbidden to continue this.

"Dozens of Argentine newspapermen are still in concentration camps."

"Mr. Josephs then proceeds to list some of the prominent liberal newspapers which have been closed, and how their citizen supporters have been beaten up by military thugs.

He concluded: "If Argentine's relations with Franco Spain are cooling, it is only because Peron and Farrell realize that if Franco goes, they are likely to topple with him. But new trade treaties, speeches of friendship and the slavish way in which Franco's teaching system, trade union controls, have been followed, show Spain is still the Argentine model."

Some Fall Fashion Trends

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

It's a beautiful winter ahead on the fashion front as evidenced by recent fashion shows held in the East.

The postwar woman will have to make the most of her feminine charms in fashions that do the most for her, was the unanimous opinion expressed by a group of fashion experts.

The conference further agreed that there will be stiff competition for the male of the species whose wits have been sharpened during the realistic war years.

Fashions, as a result, will continue to be more alluringly feminine, more daring and less monotonous than they have been.

But—and it's a big but right now —many of them will have to wait for the removal of wartime fabric restrictions. Then—watch out, men, the women will be set to really dazzle you!

Unlimited postwar travel, streamlined living and new, non-crush fabrics will enable women to take clothes of the future. And the competition among the designers themselves will result in new heights, with women able to do their shopping on weekend jaunts to all parts of the world.

It will add up to a new era of fashion whimsies, some of which will be pure nonsense. Other fashions, based on the practical side of the modern woman, will be too practical in theme. It is up to her, say the experts, to give a happy individual medium, if the North American woman is going to hold her own as world's best dressed.

In this way the woman who has to wear the garment will force the issue with stylist, manufacturer, and finally the designers.

Now for some of those fashion trends that will make it a beautiful winter.

The quiet elegance of superbly draped fabrics, the touches of opulence in fur or trimming, and the treatment of line in the costumes of these collections indicate a new, ultra-feminine style personality.

You will find in the waistline, of course, and your shoulders will be built up majestically with a new, rounded look to them.

Flatish backs, subtle drapes to the front or rear; puffed peplums that accentuate the positively slim skirt beneath, and patch pockets that all add amusing interest to the pulled-tight-over-slinky hips effect are the contributions of one of the popular designers.

The T-square is the theme of another designer. She calls the softer silhouette that. It starts with squared-away shoulders—very wide of course — called "Apollon"— and tapers to the narrowest of diplines. There's a cummerbund to wear, to wear look to her suits and dresses, for day or evening that becomes every woman. She added a large pocket over one hip, and her sleeves are mostly long with dashing, gauntlet cuffs. Skirts are a bit longer, too, than in many of the other style showings.

And this designer has obviously looked back to 1910 for some of her ideas. Hem lines drop in back. Polonaise drapes puff in front. Offcentre skirts dash to the side and to notes of her styling this year. But it's her deft handling of fabric, giving it soft, flowing effects above smooth hiplines, that labels her dresses—wearable.

Vivid color is the forte of another designer and she uses it in a number of subtle ways. She uses color with black, brown or navy and with all the finesse of a painter. Her inspiration came from the French courts, and exotic East Indian domain and the modern scene. There's Ceylon blue (sapphire tone), Nile green used with frozen fire red...a violent Harlem purple, and ruby glass (just what it sounds like) her most important shade.

Another designer has delved into the rich splendor of East Asia for his inspiration.

His suits, dresses and jackets are every woman, with some of the finest examples of regal embroidery outside of museum pieces. Though he is using largely of classic gabardines, satins and woolens in a group of distinguished coats, dresses and suits, he has made copious use of bits of gold and brilliants in scroll embroidery that makes fashion news.

These rich colors and exotic designs, however, are cent for the vintage woman. They are for the woman who wants to wear the "little black dress" in town. His Cossack suits worn with jeweled gauntlets and spangled gaiters (high shoes that look like Russian boots); his luxurious monk's coat, complete with hood and cord like a tassel tie; his fleece jackets, blazing with jewels and worn over contrasting dresses, and his three-quarter coats of white doeskin, embroidered boldly with crystals and sequins, are all for the "femme fatale." But they give others some ideas on the importance of jeweled trimming.

Lend-Lease Problems

By B. T. RICHARDSON

WASHINGTON. — Though Lend-Lease was strictly a war measure for the United States, despite the fact it was launched before the American entry into the war, its ending has come abruptly. Since March, 1941, the United States has supplied its Allies with $41,208,000,000 worth of supplies under Lend-Lease basis, and has received in return supplies and services worth $3,500,000,000 — a ratio of 12 to 1 on Lend-Lease. The final settlement of accounts will be made, in the light of the original design of Lend-Lease, to avoid perpetuating the vast war debts such as bedevilled the recovery of the world after the last war.

The sudden cessation of Lend-Lease operations on so gigantic a scale cannot avoid shaking the economic foundations of several countries. First comments appearing in the United States press failed to recognize that the greatest shock probably will be felt by United States. Lend-Lease was more than an instrument of war policy to assist Allied countries to prosecute the common war effort; it was an agency which made wartime full employment possible in the United States. Employment for one sixth of the American working force depended on filling Lend-Lease orders. This employment will disappear abruptly.

To replace Lend-Lease exports, the United States requires the benefit of a vast expansion of world trade. That is what the Truman administration will attempt to get it will force a sharp reduction in the U.S. gross production which has been $200 billion annually.

Fortunately plans for the transition from war to peacetime trading relations were well in hand, though they were incomplete when Japan surrendered. The Bretton Woods International Bank and Currency Stabilization Fund pools are re-long-range program to facilitate trade expansion. The U.S. Export-Import Bank whose resources were increased from $700,000,000 to $3-500,000,000 recently, can take care of trade transactions that the banks cannot finance export trade on the scale of $10 billion annually, which is the figure aimed at by the Bretton Woods Conference. Export trade on this scale would create 5,000,000 U.S. jobs.

A striking parallel exists between the problem which faces the United States as an aftermath of Lend-Lease, and that which will face Canada when inevitably its mutual aid scheme is ended. For both, full employment is over unless a substantial trade increase is arranged quickly.

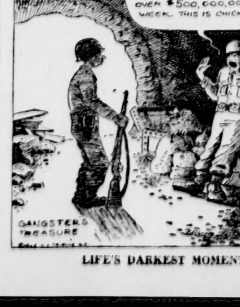

The United States devoted one sixth of its gross output to Lend-Lease, or nearly $15 billion in 1944 out of war costs of $89 billion Down the war to 30 Dec. 1945, they spent $288.8 on the war, and gave $41 billion as Lend-Lease. This was 14 per cent.

Canada spent $15 billion on the war, down to March 31, 1945, and give away $4.7 billion as mutual aid and as direct aid to Britain. This was 31 per cent.

In these terms, Canada's performance is doubly impressive. Behind the figures lies the story of two countries which greatly increased their war production. United States employed 84 per cent of its munitions by its own forces, sold two per cent and lend-lent 14 per cent, according to the foreign economy administration. Canada reached a proportionately higher state of war expansion, findin use for only 30 per cent of its munitions productions among its own forces, and alloting 70 per cent to its Allies.

Where There's a Will

Editor, Bulletin: I have been for the past few days watching the activities of a sixteen year old school boy who is busy preparing for the coming winter.

Having equipped himself with his neighbor's 24 foot ladder, a carpenter's brace and bit, a saw, a chisel and hammer, he has almost completed the job of filling in the walls of the 30 by 40 foot two storey dwelling with sawdust.

Removing at a time a section of lathing and sheeting and replacing it as the filling went on, and doing an excellent job.

Carpenters as a rule don't take kindly to anyone doing such work from the top of a long ladder. They prefer safe scaffolding whether carrying the hammer or not. The house is also one of the oldest and coldest on the avenue, but the fuel bill for the coming winter is expected to be reduced to one half of former costs.

Under section 3 (c) of the agreement, the authority was granted by Congress for the foreign economic administration to enter into agreements with Lend-Lease countries for the disposition of supplies after the war ends. Earlier this year, agreements of this kind were signed with three countries. The French agreement covers $2,575,000,000 worth of supplies, the Belgian agreement covers $225.2 million, and the Netherlands agreement $242 million. These countries agreed to pay in 30 annual instalments at 2% per cent interest.

The capacity to order goods after Lend-Lease shipments cease will depend on the resources in U.S. dollars of each country. While Britain, Russia, China and other countries, will likely arrange agreements by which they pay on the instalment plan for Lend-Lease supplies received after the war ends, the terms of payments are regarded merely as stop-gaps.

Neither Britain nor Russia has applied for loans for postwar purposes from any Washington agency, it is understood, but a great deal of talk has been heard about their requirements. Russia, it is reported, desires a loan of $6 billion or more. On this subject, the tenner of the reasons why the Yugoslavs united to form and establish true democratic government, and to most lengths outside powers, and at last King Alexander of Yugoslavia, made use of the two existing religions (Catholic and Orthodox) to create confusion, bitterness and hatred between brothers (Serbians and Croatians) for the sole purpose of greed and graft.

Liquor Protest

Editor, Bulletin: In Calgary some persons are advocating a boycott of the government liquor vendors as a protest against the present system of muicting the public on their purchases of liquor. Whether liquor is, or is not something the public should buy is not the point. If it is good it should not be the policy of the government to gouge the people with the present ridiculous prices. The practice of adding considerable water to it, without also reducing the price in proportion, is something that should not be tolerated. Any business firm that followed such a method would be prosecuted by the authorities, yet those same authorities expect the people to take this kind of treatment without protest.

Jesse James only had a horse and a gun; he was a piker. Our beverage dispensers could show him a few tricks. As regards the beer it is common knowledge that the public have been fleeced for some time now through the sale of glasses only partly filled, and with no one apparently protecting the consumer by telling those people that they are supposed to provide a full glass when it is paid for. How is it that the authorities have not taken action in this matter? The evidence can be collected any day in almost any place. If a baker were selling short loaves every day I think he would soon be checked up. Why should one line of business enjoy apparent exemption from the most casual inspection?

Should Get Facts

Editor, Bulletin: I would like to comment on the entirely misleading letter which appeared in your Readers Opinions columns signed by Norman Jaques, MP, and which enclosed a letter said to have been sent to the London Times by a British Soldier who had served in Yugoslavia. It would take too long a letter to reply in detail to all the false accusations that letter contained about the Yugoslav people, but if Mr. Norman Jaques, or anyone else, is interested he would to get the 'real background and the true history of Yugoslavia from the beginning up to the year 1941 he would very strongly advise them to go to any library and obtain "My Native Land" by Louis Adamic. In this book they will find the real reasons why the Yugoslavs united to form and establish true democratic government, and to most lengths outside powers, and at last King Alexander of Yugoslavia, made use of the two existing religions (Catholic and Orthodox) to create confusion, bitterness and hatred between brothers (Serbians and Croatians) for the sole purpose of greed and graft.

Orders Given For Complete Denazification

By GEORGE TUCKER

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Top ranking United States military and civilian officials charged with carrying out the duties of occupying Germany received orders yesterday to implement firmly the Potsdam declaration and denazify completely the American zone.

The orders came from Gen. Eisenhower and his chief deputy on the Allied control council for Germany, Lt.-Gen. Lucius D. Clay, at the first session of a three-day conference.

FORESEES TROUBLE

Gen. Clay told the conference that he foresaw serious trouble when the reparations program provided for in the Potsdam declaration "becomes effective." He predicted "difficulties will increase when the Germans see their capital assets being removed."

The Potsdam declaration provides for payment of reparations by removal of industries which might be built up into another war machine, for Allied control of Germany until the German people are judged ready to rule themselves peacefully, and for general denazification of Germany.

The initial conference session took place all day behind closed doors, but after a formal protest it was agreed that correspondents could sit in on all subsequent meetings.

TO KEEP NO NAZIS

Gen. Clay emphasized that the policy of keeping some Nazis in key jobs because of their experience would not be tolerated.

He added that "to accomplish our objectives it is inevitable that the German standard of living be reduced. However, we are not going to destroy the German people—we must leave them sufficient economy to have hopes for the future.

"Our short range problem is simple—to re-establish local German self-government. This must be augmented by throwing increasing authority to the Germans and by insuring a free press, radio, trade unions and political activity."

McCoy Health Service

Ulcers of the stomach and duodenum do not heal as readily as ulcers in other parts of the body because of being subjected to the action of the digestive juices.

A large majority of ulcers occurring in the stomach tend to locate in certain particular areas, with the pyloric area close to the lower end of the stomach being a favored spot. In ulcer of the duodenum the ulcer is usually located in the first inch and a half. The size of an ulcer may vary from that equal to the head of a pin to that of a much larger area.

At first the ulcer involves only the layer of tissues just under the mucous membrane, called the submucosal tissue but as it deepens it may finally affect the muscular wall of the stomach. After an ulcer has been present for a considerable length of time, scar tissue is formed and in some cases this tissue is quite extensive. An ulcer of the stomach is usually accompanied by, or preceded by, an excessive secretion of hydrochloric acid.

Due to this marked over-secretion, the patient may notice a burning sensation of the stomach or a feeling of nausea. In the majority of cases, the patient has learned to administer a self-treatment during the early stages, consisting of soda or some similar agent of relief; the soda being effective because it will neutralize the excess acid.

Other patients may form the habit of eating something when the distress in the stomach is marked, having found out that this practice will subdue the gnawing, burning feeling and provide relief.

The discomfort from a stomach ulcer may be slight, or may be described as a feeling of heaviness or a feeling of pain. The patient generally says the pain is boring, gnawing or cutting. Apparently, the hydrochloric acid of the stomach has a greater tendency to produce pain than the grating of food against the surface of the ulcer. Foods which are rough, or foods which stimulate the throwing out of acid, will retard recovery and for this reason, a strict diet becomes imperative.

One thing which the ulcer patient many not understand is that his discomfort will be made worse by active exercise, such as dancing, walking any distance, horseback riding, and so on.

The dietetic regimen I have found most successful in the treatment of stomach ulcer in the milk diet. This regimen is described at length in my articles on the subject. Those who are interested in the causes and treatment of stomach ulcers are welcome to send for these articles by writing to the McCoy Health Service in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed envelope and 10c.

TATTOOED WRENS? WHY SURE, BUT NO ANCHORS, SNAKES OR FLOWERS

Tattoos are part of navy tradition . . . and Wrens are no exception. The favorite spot is under the wrist watch, as shown by Marie Routh, Saskatoon.

No lush sentimentality for the Wrens, says one Halifax "artist" who has decorated 500 so far. Here is Joan Brown getting her blood type indelibly inscribed on her arm by Fred Baldwin, Halifax artist. They bear the pain well, he says.

You'd never know Jackie Reeves of Vancouver ever had a tattoo unless she held up both wrists like this. She just has her initials put on. The girls never go in for the usual sailor stuff — anchors, etc. They want something in cameo.

Ciano's Diary

Attempt on Hitler In Munich a Fake Or a Family Affair

And Mussolini Wasn't Too Happy That Der Fuehrer Escaped

This is the ninth article based on the diary of Count Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law.—EDITOR.

Copyright, 1945, by The Chicago Daily News, Inc., and The Edmonton Bulletin
All rights reserved for all countries, including right of translation.

Oct. 6—Dec. 5, 1939

The bomb attempt on Hitler at Munich in 1939 was a Gestapo plot to stir German sentiment against Great Britain or a Nazi family affair that dated back to the 1934 blood purge, Count Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, recorded in his diary within 24 hours of the explosion.

He portrays Il Duce sweating over a telegram to the Fuehrer which would be warm, but not too much so. No Italian, least of all Mussolini, rejoiced at Hitler's narrow escape, Ciano said.

The diary notes:

OCT. 6—"Il Duce speaks cordially to the German ambassador, Mackensen, and tells him that Italian military preparations are proceeding. If the war continues, he will be able next spring to give rather than to receive help."

Lion Doesn't Like Being a Dove

OCT. 9 — "I have never seen Il Duce so depressed as he was this morning. . . . 'The Italians,' he said, 'have heard my warlike propaganda for 18 years. Now, with Europe in flames, they cannot understand how I become the herald of peace. There's no other explanation than our military unpreparedness, but even for this I am made responsible — I, who have proclaimed always the power of our armed forces'."

Ciano

OCT. 12—"Bombelles (envoy of Croat leader, Machek) sends an interesting report on the situation in Croatia. Agitation is strong, and the money sent by us has intensified it to the point of serious incidents between mobilized Croats and their Serbian officers."

OCT. 13—"Chamberlain's speech makes the hopes of even the most obstinate pacifists sink."

Editor's note: This is a reference to a speech by Prime Minister Chamberlain in which he grimly said Great Britain refused to make any peace with Hitler based on "recognition of his conquests and his right to do what he pleases with the conquered."

OCT. 16—"Il Duce . . . said there will be no possibility of entering the war before June or July. Even then we shall have at most three months' supplies. . . .

"Il Duce was much affected by certain documents about Russia which have come into our possession and wants to begin a press campaign to explain to the Italians that Bolshevism is dead and that in its place is a kind of Slavic fascism. I try to dissuade him. Russian friendship is a potion that the Italians will not drink easily, especially if it is served in a German tankard."

OCT. 19—"France and Great Britain signed an agreement with Turkey today. It does not displease me because it is Germany that loses a point. . . .

"A change of guard is about to take place in the government."

OCT. 25—"Il Duce plans to write a letter to Hitler to tell him that Italy represents for Germany an economic and moral reserve, but that later it may also play a military role. I do not see the need for this document."

Ciano Still Hopes To Cut Reich Ties

OCT. 26—"Taking advantage of Il Duce's state of mind, I shall try to make a speech (Dec. 16) that will go directly to the target, that will dig the final ditch between us and the Germans. . . . Il Duce was saying that Hitler creates grave risks for himself. . . . Arms in the hands of the people and power in the hands of the officers are distinctly unfavorable conditions for dictatorship."

Editor's note: Ciano delivered an "anti-German" speech to the Chamber of the Fasci and Corporations on Dec. 16 but it did not "dig the final ditch."

OCT. 28—"The celebration of the anniversary of the march on Rome was listless and lacking in enthusiasm. Il Duce is the most dissatisfied and restless person among us all. He feels that events have betrayed both hopes and promises."

NOV. 3 — "The new ministry is called in whispers the 'Ciano cabinet.'"

NOV. 7—"The friction over Poland does not improve our relations with Berlin. But other elements play their part. Ribbentrop continues to say that England entered the war because she learned in time that Italy would remain neutral. This is a lie. . . ."

NOV. 8—"Il Duce is much annoyed by what Gen. Liotta says about the German leaning to alcoholism. He went so far as to say that the 'German flood can be stemmed only by alcoholizing Germany,' and 'that the world of tomorrow will belong to the people who drink water.'"

"I wonder if it is worth while to take that greedy simpleton seriously. Because he offered some bad wine to the Germans he believes he has won their confidence."

NOV. 9—"The attempt on Hitler's life in Munich leaves everybody skeptical and Mussolini is more skeptical than anyone else. . . . Either it is a master plot by the police to create anti-British sentiment among the Germans, or a family affair, concerning people who live inside the yoke of the egg, perhaps a hold-over from June 30 (blood purge of 1934) which cannot have been forgotten in Munich.

"Il Duce has tried hard to compose a telegram expressing his delight that the peril was avoided. He wanted it to be warm, but not too much so, because in his belief no Italian has felt any great joy at Hitler's escape. Least of all Il Duce."

NOV. 11—"Rumors of an imminent German invasion of Belgium and Holland are intensified. . . . I must say two things: nothing has been communicated to me from Berlin, and Hitler and Ribbentrop always have excluded an attack on the neutrals for technical and moral reasons."

NOV. 20 — "News from Prague leads us to think that the situation is sharper than the official reports admit. Il Duce is satisfied, particularly because he feels that a Bohemian crisis will delay or perhaps torpedo the projected Western offensive. The idea of Hitler waging war and, worse still, of winning it is altogether unbearable for Mussolini."

NOV. 26—"At Dresden the Stadthalter (Nazi regional official) said after a banquet, which our consul attended, the Germany must fear friends that betray her even more than her enemies. . . . Von Markensen . . . sought to excuse the official, saying he probably was not lucid after the banquet. Il Duce is indignant."

NOV. 28—"There is increased tension between Russia and Finland, which suggests a coming attack."

Von Ribbentrop Turns the Screws

DEC. 1—"The German ambassador asks me again what we intend to do about the blockade. It is Ribbentrop who showers us with telegrams and who wants to create a crisis between us and London at any cost."

DEC. 2 — "Ribbentrop, who is beginning to grope in the swamp, is trying to pull us in with him. . . . It would be as idiotic to ignore his game as it would be criminal to play with him. . . . The whole of Italy is indignant about Russian aggression against Finland and only a sense of discipline prevents public demonstrations."

DEC. 3—"It is proposed to send a letter to Hitler, urging him to find a diplomatic solution. On the other hand, if Hitler plans to continue the war, Il Duce will intervene in 1942 as our obligations require."

DEC. 4—"In all the Italian cities there are sporadic demonstrations by students in favor of Finland and against Russia. But we mustn't forget that the people shout 'Death to Russia' and mean really 'Death to Germany.'"

"I showed Il Duce the report of an Italian, the only foreigner permitted to live in Poznan. With a simplicity that accentuates the horror, he describes all that the Germans are doing, unmentionable atrocities without reason. Il Duce was indignant. He asked me to see that American and French newspapers indirectly obtain the content of the report. The world must know.

"Starace brings a report that the German embassy is preparing news of a serious breach between me and Il Duce."

(Tomorrow: Duce doublecrosses Hitler.)

To Help Out Mother

Seeks "Mail Order" Husband

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28.—(CP)—A "mail order husband" who can provide a good home in Canada for her 64-year-old mother is being sought here by Jessie Craig, 29, of No. 8 St. Andrew's Road, Golders Green, London. The young woman has appealed to a Vancouver newspaper for help in her quest.

A German bomb in 1940 destroyed the home where Miss Craig and her mother lived. Since then they have been living with various friends and "my mother has suffered a great deal in consequence," she wrote. "I have no means at my disposal to make life any easier or more secure for her, and although in my own particular case there is no urgency, I feel I want to see my mother comfortably settled in a home of our own.

"In order to achieve this I am prepared to marry a man of good character and position who will offer mother and me a comfortable home, and by so doing, open up for us a new life in Canada," Miss Craig concluded.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean
SPORTS EDITOR

YANKS are favored to take the senior baseball playoff which opens at Renfrew Park tonight, chiefly because of an overwhelming superiority in batting power. Good defensive work of the Signallers' infield, however, has been responsible for a large extent for the showing of that club this season and will be an important factor in the final series.

Bob Sawyer, who likely will receive the starting assignment for Signals, is rated to have an excellent chance of stopping the Army nine. Either "Red" McKenna or Wilbur Ray will pitch for the Yanks.

Alex Watt, whose last senior team here prior to going into the services was the Edmonton Flyers, may line up with either New Westminster or Vancouver in the coast hockey circuit this coming winter. Pete Elock is said to be slated for either New Westminster or Seattle.

Ken Charlton, Regina Rough-Rider before joining the RCAF, will play for Ottawa Riders this fall. While in the Air Force, Ken performed for the RCAF-Bombers of Winnipeg. He has turned down a pro football contract with Cleveland Rams.

RECREATION PROGRAM

IT would appear that the methods adopted by the Chicago Sports Association have produced excellent results and might be studied to advantage by similar organizations elsewhere.

The Association, a civic project, according to Hugh Fullerton, Jr., began with football and has spread to other sports. The leaders set out to teach kids 10 to 15 years old how to play.

After trying high school coaches, they went to the professional Bears and Cardinals and now the kids "Get better coaching than they could get in college." The schools run for eight weeks, then the best 15 in each are picked for a "Varsity" which plays a regular schedule, in addition to putting on exhibitions between halves of regular pro games.

Over 2,000 turned out for the first year's schools, 3,000 were out last year and nobody will even venture a guess how many will be on hand this year. Baseball and other games are included in the list of the Association's activities.

CLIPPERS PLAY THURSDAY

VANCOUVER Sears will be the next opponents for Edmonton U.S. Army Clippers who won the Alberta senior men's fastball title at Lethbridge during the week-end. The western semi-final series is scheduled for Kingsway Park here on Thursday and Friday commencing at 7 p.m. and the winners will proceed to Moose Jaw where the final round will be played Labor Day.

Three Alberta fastball titles are now held by teams in the northern division. Clippers tucked away the men's senior, Walk-Rites captured senior girls' honors and Manville Bluebirds held the girls intermediate championship. In addition the South Side team is in the provincial junior men's final and will play at Medicine Hat this coming week-end.

The provincial archery tournament will be held in Calgary on Monday, Sept. 3, and competitors from several Alberta cities and towns are expected to attend. At least four or five have entered from Edmonton and an invitation is extended to all interested. Bob Copeman, phone 22332, secretary of the Edmonton Archery Club, will be pleased to supply complete information regarding the event.

Holds Strikeout Record

Feller's Return to Majors Brings Stirring Memories

By HARRY GRAYSON

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28—Bill Klem, dean of umpires, called Robert William Andrew Feller the greatest pitcher who ever lived.

Certainly none broke in as spectacularly, and the beauty of it was that the Iowa Farm Boy kept right on going.

Bob Feller is the only major league pitcher in history to strike out more batters than he allowed hits throughout a career.

The battle-starred gun-fire control director of three theatres won 76 games while losing 33 his last three years, averaged 250 strikeouts the last four.

No wonder Cleveland pitched a civic celebration for Rapid Robert following his three years and eight months in the Navy.

Feller's return to baseball brings stirring memories.

The August afternoon in 1936 when as a 17-year-old Bullet Bob struck out eight Cardinals in the three innings he pitched in an exhibition game. Frank Frisch going crazy when told the kid was a peanut butcher. He was, for Cy Slapnicka had his contract all balled up, and had him working in the concession department.

A RECORD START

Feller tying the modern big league record by whiffing 17 Athletics in his first start.

Eastern baseball writers seeing Feller for the first time, April 1, 1937, in an exhibition game with the Giants at Jackson, Miss. The press box at the county fair park was only 1 feet behind the catcher, and young Bob wasn't fooling. The baseball writers fell out of it with every pitch.

Following the game the writers hastened to the champion Giants' dressing room for opinions, catching Klem on the way. Feller had pitched only three innings, but Klem, in his enthusiasm, called him the greatest pitcher who ever lived. A rare compliment indeed, coming from an eagle-eyed umpire presiding Christy Mathewson and a National Leaguer at that.

Hal Schumacher wished he had

Bob Feller . . . batters at sea now.

Feller's arm. Bill Terry said he couldn't miss when he developed control.

The only criticism came from Dick Bartell. "He's not as fast as Mungo," observed the shortstop. Feller struck out Bartell 19 times out of the next 23 times he faced him on the exhibition tour. Bartell didn't get a loud foul until the clubs reached Fort Smith, Ark.

Feller hurting his arm. Slapnicka taking him to specialists all over the country, and finally having the precious soupbone yanked into place by Doc Austin, a bonesetter residing only a few blocks from the Cleveland park.

Feller fanning 16 Red Sox.

Rapid Robert fanning six in a row in 36, 28 in two consecutive fifth games, and then, on the final day of the campaign, 18 Tigers for a modern nine-inning record—and losing, 4-1.

The majors' first opening-day no-hitter in 40 years, Feller's 1-0 performance against the White Sox in 40.

Feller leading in strikeouts in '38-39-40-41, heading the list in bases on balls in '38-39-41, showing the way in shutouts in '38-40-41.

He either knocked 'em off or put 'em on. He gave you the jitters, but there was never a dull moment.

Bob Feller was—and is—baseball's top pitching show.

Eleven - Hit Attack Led By Verenka

Army and Navy Pats moved into a tie for first place in the City Senior Girls' Fastball league by defeating Mortons 5-1 last night at Kingsway Park. Sitting on top of the ladder prior to last night, the loss for Mortons' forces them to share the leading position for the first time since the early part of the schedule.

Trailing 1-0 in the early part of the game, the Pats finally found the offerings of Mortons' pitcher, Mary Zurowski, to their likings, and pounded out a total of 11 hits. They also took advantage of a few errors by their opponents and won going away.

Helping her own cause along, Mary Verenka, who went to the mound for the winners, was the leading hitter with a perfect night at the plate, getting three for three. Next in line was Millie McAuley, starry Morton third sacker, who got three of her club's five hits out of four trips to the plate.

Millie McAuley put the Morton girls out in front in the opening inning when she got a jump on the game. After dropping a single into left-field with one out, she moved along a couple of bags on an error and came home on a sacrifice by Merrie Mercer.

Carol Lee's double by Mary Verenka, a safe bunt by Thora Stewart, and a single by Ina Ward put the Pats in front 2-1 in the fifth stanza. They added two more in the next frame on an error, Winnie Reid's sacrifice, a triple by Janet Anderson and a flyout to the outfield. Ruth Brault notched the winners' final tally in the ninth after poking out a single into centre-field. She went to third on an error and came home on a wild pitch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A $4,313.90 daily double payoff was registered at Belmont Park Monday.

At Glenora Courts

City Tennis Tournament To Start on September 5

The city tennis tournament threatened for a time by the shortage of balls, will be held this year at the Glenora courts starting on Wednesday, Sept. 5th and will be part of the big city sports week.

It was expected some time ago that the tourney would have to be shelved because of the ball situation, but sufficient balls have been obtained and the meet will go on.

The field in the men's events is left wide open with last year's triple champion, "Shorts" Purcell, unable to defend his laurels. Such noted tennis players as Capt. Ray Gould, Gordie Schmidt, Jack Stiles and George Docherty of Civil Service, Harry Holmes, Tutor Edmunds, Clare Amies and Bob Werth of Glenora; Harry Kinloch, Les McManus and Gordon Marshall of Garneau should make a keenly contested men's singles competition, however.

MACKAY SISTERS BACK

Garneau will be well represented in the ladies' events by Norma and Lola Mackay, holders of the Northern Hardware ladies' doubles challenge trophy. Norma is the defending champion in the ladies' open singles.

Strongest challenge for the ladies' crown is likely to come from Bessie McAvoy, three times provincial champion who staged a marvellous comeback after being out of action for two years in winning in three events of the Civil Service tournament held recently. Also from Civil Service are Betty Hall and Sophie Mighall, two highly rated players. Glenora's Phyllis Sutton is expected to make the going tough for the opposition in the ladies' events.

SEPT. 4 ENTRY DEADLINE

The tournament committee, headed by Harry Kinloch and Helen Lilly, is doing a fine job so far in making arrangements for what promises to be a bang-up affair. Other members of the committee are Alice Mather, Clare Amies, Harry Holmes, Bruce Webb and Jack McIlveen.

Deadline for entries is set for Tuesday, Sept. 4, at 7 p.m. Players are asked to make entry at one of the three clubs. At Civil Service they should be made through Alice Mather, while at Garneau Helen Lilly is the representative and at Glenora players may enter through Jack McIlveen. For further information players are asked to get in touch with Helen Lilly, draw secretary, by phoning 82634.

Burns' Advance In Intermediate Fastball Play-Offs

Burns advanced to the semi-final round in the men's intermediate fastball championship by defeating Woodwards in the deciding game of their best-of-three series last night at Boyle Street by the score of 6-4. The teams previously had one win each and a draw, making last night's fixture the final one. Burns now meet the Packers, who took their semi-final series from Street Railway last week, with the survivor meeting Swifts in the finals.

With one run in the first and three in the third frame, the winners were ahead 4-0. Then Woodwards came back with a pair in the fourth and one in the fifth to make the game interesting with Burns only carrying a one-run lead. Then in the bottom half of the sixth inning, the Packing Plant fastballers shoved two more runs across to complete their scoring, which proved enough to give them the win. The loers' last tally was rung up in the eighth frame.

Big hitters for Woodwards were Ted Broder with a triple in the eighth with none on. Al Young and Mike Novak with doubles in the fourth, and Joe McHale with a two-bagger in the fifth with one on.

Bill Danylowich was the longest hitter for Burns with a two-base knock in the sixth with the bags loaded.

Score by innings—

Woodwards	0	0	0	2	1	0	1	0	6
Burns	1	0	0	3	0	0	2	0	9	5

Joe McHale and Alf Eagleshan; Roy Butz and Joe Warner.

Shake-Up in Cubs' Lineup Results From Sudden Slump

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Manager Charley Grimm, irked by the sudden slump of his first-place Chicago Cubs under the stretch drive of the rampaging St. Louis Cardinals, Monday benched outfielder Bill Nicholson, 1944 home-run leader of the National league.

In yanking Nicholson from the line-up for the first time this season, Grimm announced first sacker Phil Cavarretta would switch to right field and ailing Heinz Becker would play first.

Charlie Grimm

"We have to get some hitting," declared Grimm. "Becker's ankles have been bad, but he has rested for a week and says he's ready to try for a regular job again."

Nicholson's hitting has been a disappointment of the Cub season. The one-time slugger is batting .253 and has only 10 home runs, compared with 44 for 1944.

POSE FOR PICTURES

The shake-up came as the club posed for their world series group picture and drilled to regain their dulled batting eyes.

The only "birdie" the photographed Cubs had to amile at was the one abruptly handed them by the Cardinals when the Cards mowed them down three straight to shrink their vanishing lead in the National League pennant race to only 2½ games. That crushing broadside certainly was nothing at which to smile.

Whether the traditional picture-making business was grossly premature depends on how well Charley Grimm's sagging athletes come out for the second round against the Cardinals at St. Louis this week-end.

LEAVE FOR PITTSBURGH

Following a snappy workout at Wrigley Field Monday, the Cubs hopped for Pittsburgh for a three-game series with the Pirates opening today. The Cubs have won eight of 15 from the Bucs this season. But Grimm's big worry was the crucial St. Louis invasion for night games Friday and Saturday and a Sunday doubleheader. The Cards have beaten the Cubs 10 to 13 times. The Cubs do not figure to have any advantage in playing night games against the Cards. They have engaged in seven games under the lights this season and blew all of them.

The Cubs and Cards meet five times after next Sunday—three night skirmishes at St. Louis Sept. 18-20 and two single games at Chicago Sept. 25 and 26. But this week-end's showdown probably will make or break the pennant chances of either club.

North Edmonton Plans Sports Day

One of the most extensive programs in connection with the city recreation week—Sept. 2 to 8—is being planned by the North Edmonton Community League.

They will start off a full week of activities with a sports day on Labor Day, Sept. 3rd. The events that day will include children's races, bicycle race, wrestling match and other field day activities. Ball games will be held during the afternoon and evening on the holiday and are also planned for every day during the week.

NWAC to Stage Track and Field Meet on Sept. 5

Working in conjunction with Recreation Week officials in Edmonton, North West Air Command will stage a track and field meeting on Wednesday afternoon, September 5th, that should prove to be the feature event of its kind of the season.

Arrangements are being completed for the staging of the events that were "rained out" on Lancaster Day and in addition RCAF personnel from the different bases on the North West Staging Route will compete for the command championship of North West Air Command.

It is expected that each unit of the command will send a six man team that will compete in specified events with a trophy, emblematic of the command championship going to the winning team.

There will be a number of open events in addition to children's races and the members of the Loyal Squirt Squadron will take part in the events that will declare the Squirt Squadron championship.

One of the highlights of the afternoon will of course be the tug-of-war competition with teams competing from the Army, Navy, USAAF, Fire Dept., Police Dept. and the RCAF. This will be for the city championship and valuable prizes will be awarded to the winners of all events on the afternoon's program.

Squad. Leader Jack Truycott, special services officer at North West Air Command headquarters, is reported to have a complete picture planned that should provide

Two City Fastball Players To Join Chicago Pro Circuit

By CECIL GOLDSTICK

JEAN STEWART and Mollie McAuley two of Edmonton's senior girls' fastball stars will be missed from the local scene at Kingsway Park for at least three weeks, and possibly for the remainder of the season. They will be leaving on Wednesday for Chicago where they were called to help out a club that is injury riddled in the American National Girls' Professional Fastball league.

Name of the club they will be performing with is not known yet, only information received here is that Harry Wilson, well-known Chicago sportsman, got in touch with Percy Page, famous coach of the world champion Edmonton Grads, through wire requesting assistance from the local girls' fastball front.

Jean Stewart, who has been doing a share of the pitching for Clare Hollingsworth's Army and Navy Pats during the past couple of seasons, has won six games and lost four for her club this year.

Besides being a good chucker, she has a better than average sticker with the willow at the plate.

To Millie McAuley, professional fastball is nothing new, for two years she played for Rockford in the American Girls' Glamour League and on both occasions was voted the league's all-star third sacker. Last season she played over 110 games and finished sixth in the batting order.

Coming from a real athletic family in Regina, Millie is the sister of Grant Warwick, New York Ranger hockey star, and the late Claude Warwick, who was heading for big time stuff in the pugilistic world before tragedy struck him last year through a bus accident down east while in the Navy.

Married to Ken McAuley, coach of the Mortons club in the City League, and for past two seasons a team mate of Grant Warwick with Rangers, for whom Ken played goal, Millie has been performing at third base for her husband's club and has proven one of the most outstanding players in the league. Her absence will be felt by her club who are at the present time tied with the Pats at the top of the league.

HERE WE GO AGAIN—University of Washington's Huskies line up in the first scrimmage workout of the season. Two squads try out new trick plays developed by Coach Ralph (Pest) Welch. Huskies have only three returning letter men, but Welch expects additional experienced players in November.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—(BUP)—Maj. Forrest Lindsay of Hayward, Cal., the United States athletic officer for the Berlin district, an unintentional espionage agent against British track stars, reported Monday on the good look he got on their preparations for an impending international meet.

Lindsay and your reporter were taking a walk to Berlin's huge concrete Olympic Stadium where the 1936 Olympic Games were held to compare the big bowl with the way it looked then.

From within, surprisingly, came cheers and outside approaching the entrance were long lines of green British Tommies. Inside a British track meet was progressing which was unexpected since nothing had been scheduled.

LAST WORKERS

THESE British certainly are fast workers," Hayward said. "They have fixed up the track swell and it looks now as if they really are concentrating on beating the United States, France, and Russia in the big track meet to be held in the stadium in mid-September."

Lindsay watched crack British relay teams in the 440-yard event and his moustache twitched with satisfaction.

"They are running awkwardly and are passing the baton wrong," he said.

He also pointed out that they were running in spikeless sneakers, the kind usually used for tennis. Confining his espionage to a distance he didn't ask why or whether that pedal attire would be used in the big meet.

About a thousand Tommy spectators were sprinkled in the south-side of the huge oval which seats about 90,000 persons. They were in the mezzanine under the Imperial parapet where Hitler used to watch his Nazi legions and orate to them about the "master race."

EVIDENCES OF WAR

A NUMBER of Tommies were lined up getting biscuits and tea. There was little left of the Nazi resplendancy which was evident for the 1936 Olympics, although the grass in the infield was green and the cinder track freshly crisp.

The top of the south side press box was half blown off by bombing and there were other evidences of the air war.

Generally, it was a dreary contrast to the pomp and pageantry, the swirling swastika banners which reigned in the days when an American team featuring negro Jesse Owens demonstrated its superiority.

The touring American reporters recalled Hitler's disgust at the failure of his athletes to cope with the top international competition.

Ironically, the concrete plaques which bore the names of American winners and those of other nations in the west end of the stadium still remain untouched.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Altruism among men who promote baseball schools is like a non-profit race track—it just doesn't exist. At least, it didn't until Jack Sheehan and Dick Spalding of Chicago Cubs moved into Niagara Falls, Ont., with a fungo factory designed expressly to do "something helpful for organized baseball in general."

That's what they say. The Chicago school—they prefer the term "training camp"—isn't regarded simply as a talent-scouting enterprise conducted to polish rough ivory for future delivery to the Cubs. It goes further than that.

Spading and Sheehan told Bill (Niagara Falls Review) Gaynon the Chicago plan originated with general manager James P. Gallagher, who doesn't want to see "a single kid slighted", regardless of talent.

"We are ordered to conduct things that way, and our job is at stake should we slip up on front-office instructions," said Sheehan. There's more to baseball, he adds, than winning pennants and world series.

What does Chicago get out of it? Well, Sheehan says he's seen as many as 25,000 boys who "failed" at Cub camps occupying high-priced seats at Wrigley Stadium. And the youngsters sell the game to their parents. Week-end excursions from nearby Chicago points to the ball park contain an average of 50 per cent of Chicago "trainees" or their relatives.

Then, too, says Sheehan, some who tried out at the training camp started organizing kid teams of their own. Others often became executives.

"I can think of numerous men holding good executive jobs in ball, who never played a game in any professional league," Gaynon quotes Sheehan as saying.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve doesn't see how rugby can miss, because "the lucky old grid game is played at a time of year when there are few counter-attractions. In fact, practically all the counter-attractions come to the games." This department will wager a 55-yard line ticket that Joe Krol, now conditioning with Detroit Lions of the National Football League at Windsor, Ont., but not taking part in drills, will finally join a Canadian club. Joe's laconic rehearsals don't impress Coach Guy Derardi. For the first time in Vancouver history, coast city high schools are planning a fall schedule of Canadian football. Previously English rugby held the stage from September to early December.

Suggests Plans To Help Players After Retirement

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—For the first time in the history of baseball, somebody on the ownership side proposed to do something for the future welfare of the chattels of the most monopolistic of all sports.

Paul Fagan, new and wealthy partner in the San Francisco Seals, advances the plan to have every club in the Pacific Coast League begin assuming "responsibility toward preparing players occupationally and financially for useful occupation upon retiring from baseball."

He has outlined these proposals for the consideration of his fellow Coast League owners and directors.

Clubs to "assist in securing steady employment with corporations continuously 'in off-baseball periods each year. This will give a player a foundation and seniority to carry on with.

"Contributions to a savings plan by both club and players, funds to be used for conservative investment or to build up an insurance income for the future.

"Encourage (players to take) university extension courses for future use."

Champions Back To Defend U.S. Tennis Crowns

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Two defending champions, Pauline Betz and Sgt. Frank Parker, both of Los Angeles, will start the balls bouncing in the 64th United States singles tennis championships on the big Forest Hills stadium today and the chances are they still will be around for the finals on Labor Day.

In recognition of her feat of winning the women's title three years in succession, Miss Betz will play the first match of the tournament against Betty Rosenquest of South range, N.J., a Rollins College (Fla.) student who recently graduated from the junior ranks.

Parker, who first played in the Nationals 14 years ago, will face Pfc. George Ball of El Paso, Tex., in today's second stadium match.

Although Parker hasn't had any tournament tuneups this season, he had been playing against three former national champions, Lieut. Don Budge, Lieut. Don McNeill and Navy Specialist Bobby Riggs during a tour of the Pacific islands and he is in good trim. He did not enter the doubles this year in order to concentrate on the big event.

The principal opposition for the defending champion is expected to come from Bill Talbert of Wilmington, Del., winner of nine consecutive tournaments this summer, and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, who has been almost as successful in the women's field. Mrs. Cooke was champion in 1941, defeating Miss Betz in the final.

It Says Here

by Bob Hope

We got a wonderful recipe one morning for making ice cream in the European Theatre of Occupation. The recipe was given to me by guys of the 354th P-51 Mustang Fighter Group and is as follows: First, fill a belly tank of a Mustang with canned milk and ice cream powder, then get in the plane and take-off and climb rapidly to 31,000 feet and zero temperatures, and shake the plane up and down for awhile; then dive as fast as you can for the field where the cook is waiting with a scoop to dish out the desert. (I didn't see them do it, but it sounds like a good idea.)

BOB HOPE

We took off from the 354th air strip in Germany and landed at Kaufbeuren to do a 2:30 show for the 2nd Air Disarmament Wing and the 55th Fighter Group, and then get in the show line and stowed away some great beef stew (with real beef), tomatoes, beans and canned peaches and cake. (If I gain any more weight I'll get to look as fat as I am.) When we left Kaufbeuren, eight Mustangs came up and escorted us a couple of miles, playing a game with our big carrier plane. We were cruising about 180 miles per hour but from the way those fighters whipped past, you'd have thought we were waiting for an order to take off. We did every show at Ferstenfeldbruck, just west of Munich, for the 29th Tactical Air Command and were billeted with the boys there. Guys in uniform may all look alike, but every outfit has outstanding personality. A character from Brooklyn (naturally) called Demetrios Sazani, a T-Sgt., was the personality there. Sazani, who formerly ran a number of concessions at the New York World's Fair, promoted everything at that base. Saturday nights he ran a bingo game for cognac and wine with a grand prize of $300. He also managed one of the best softball teams in the European Theatre of Operations. (Softball attracts a lot of interest over here, with as much as 82,000 being bet on a single game.) In his off hours, Sazani ran enlisted men's and officers' dances, and rumor had it that he could be coaxed into overseeing a crap game now and then. I won't say he was doing okay financially in the army, but he was the only sergeant I knew who had a full colonel for an orderly!

Chinese, Yank Units Occupy Shanghai City

nounced here that Chinese and American paratroops had dropped into Shanghai and had taken over control of the city for Chiang.

In a statement issued on his arrival Mao said that "at the present time a great change in the realization of democracy and consolidation of internal units are of the utmost urgency."

The skyfighters swept down into the teeming city of 3,489,990 persons with their automatic weapons ready, but they were confident that they would meet with no opposition. Chinese underground reports as early as last week had indicated that Shanghai's Japanese garrison was ready to quit.

HOLIDAY ATMOSPHERE

The great seaport practically fell of its own weight when the Kuomintang underground units swarmed from their hiding places to take over, and by the time the paratroopers arrived Shanghai had already taken on a holiday appearance with crowds yelling and cheering as they raced through the streets ready to seize any luckless Japanese soldier.

Chinese newspapers in Chungking today splashed the story all over their front pages.

Official amity between the compatriots and the central government was apparently only hours away as the communist party's central committee was issued a manifesto saying: "We are willing to conclude a compromisory agreement with the Kuomintang and other democratic parties to facilitate a speedy settlement of various problems and to become united on a long term basis."

Surprise Army Witness Enters Treason Hearing

camp drinking and eating with South American Joe'—a German interrogator.

EXPECTED END TODAY

Earlier it had been expected that the trial of Hale, native of Windsor, Ont., and now of Vassar, Mich., would be completed today with summaries by prosecution and defence counsel.

Before the taking of evidence was resumed in the case against Hale, the trial was interrupted for the appearance of Pte. Edwin Bernard Martin, 26, of Riverside, Ont. Martin also is a member of the Essex Scottish regiment and like Hale was captured during the Dieppe raid.

A new court was sworn in for Martin with the same president as in the Hale case—Col. M. B. K. Gordon of Ottawa.

TWO CHARGES

Martin, who arrived from detention at Reading goal handcuffed to an escort, was charged with "Aiding the enemy while acting as an informer between January, 1943, and August, 1943, and between September, 1943, and April, 1945, voluntarily acting as a member of an organization controlled by the enemy and known as the British Free Corps."

Before Martin was asked to plead, Defence Counsel Lt. Col. F. D. Wallace of Brantford, Ont., said he was not prepared to go ahead and adjournment was granted to Thursday.

Lowe testified that around Nov. 1-5 German guard came into the compound where he and Hale were living and gave a piece of paper to the sergeant in charge. Lowe said Hale was called out and left the compound with the guard.

He returned four or five hours later and "walked straight up to me because I had been pally to him and he had symptoms of being drunk," said the witness. "He was three parts drunk."

PLENTY OF CIGARETTES

Lowe said Hale "threw 20 English Players cigarettes on to the table and said: 'I got them from Joe and there are more where they came from.'"

Lowe explained that Joe was the common name for "South American Joe", a German interpreter whom Lowe described as a Lieut. Meyers.

"Hale sat down and was quite pleased with himself and with the beer. I asked him what was happening—what was the racket.

"He said: 'I've been out this evening with South American Joe. He has got to know that my grandmother is a National Socialist and a strong supporter of the Nazi party, also that my father was a big chief in American dockyards in the last war, so he started asking me questions about American shipping and all that sort of thing.'

Lowe said he could not believe that.

'WHY NOT TELL?'

"I said: 'You didn't say anything to him, did you?' and he (Hale) replied: 'Why not—they'll get to know in any case and I might as well have the fags as anybody else'."

From then on, Lowe said, fellow prisoners watched Hale and Canadians especially were suspicious of him.

Questioned further about Hale's conversation upon return from the supposed outing with "South American Joe," Lowe quoted Hale as saying he had been out in civilian clothes, had as much to eat and drink as he wanted and "could even have had a woman—but that will come a later day."

He said Hale talked for a couple of hours after he returned to the compound and that on the following day he overheard the accused telling other prisoners about what a "grand night" he had outside the camp.

Penang, Jap-Nazi Submarine Base, Ordered Give Up

RANGOON, Aug. 28.—(CP)—The Japanese commander of the former Japanese-German submarine base of Penang, guarding the approaches to Singapore, was ordered today to a rendezvous with British naval officers offshore to discuss surrender preliminaries.

The Japanese were ordered to bring a white-flagged launch alongside the flagship H. M. S. Nelson, north of Penang, at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. MDT Monday) and present full details of surrender.

This was the first surrender contact with Malaya.

The British abandoned Penang in February, 1942.

Liquor Ration For Province Is Increased

of spirits in September, liquor control board officials said Tuesday.

Officials stressed the new ration quota applied only to September. October quotas will be set next month, when figures as to supply and demand are available.

Hope was voiced that the control board would be able to provide 26 ounces of whisky of the 32 ounces of spirits authorized for each permit-holder in September.

MOSTLY GIN

However, the official announcement released Tuesday said "The extra quota of spirits will of necessity have to be furnished from liquors other than whisky, which is in short supply, and for the time being will consist mostly of gin."

No additional Scotch whisky is obtainable at the present time, the announcement stated. It is anticipated there will be a slight improvement in the situation with respect to rye. This improvement will depend on the receipt of additional stocks from Canadian distilleries, "as and when these can be prepared and shipped."

No advice has been received from producers of domestic wine as to increased production of that product. Liquor control board officers pointed out that sugar is used in making wine, and as long as sugar rationing is in effect, wine production will be limited to amount of sugar available. "The situation is exactly the same as applies to manufacture of candy bars and other products taking sugar," one informant said.

DEPENDS ON SUPPLIES

Increased production of beer depends on availability of labor, materials, kegs, bottles and bottle-tops.

During the war, large quantities of malt went into production of high-grade alcohol for military use, and only recently these heavy demands were lessened.

It was pointed out that time is required to process malt for use in beer manufacture, and in addition, beer is aged for three months before it goes on the market.

Manufacture of bottles, kegs and bottle-tops was sharply restricted under essential war goods production regulations, and free flow of beer must wait until sufficient quantities of containers are available.

MUST WAIT

As well as material shortages affecting production of containers, manufacturers of containers must wait until labor supplies are available before full production can be attained.

Fires Set Aboard Big Liner Europa

A United States sailor, attached to the liner, was taken into custody. The navy said a firebug evidently was at work. Holes had been dug in wooden portions of the ship and stuffed with paper and oily waste.

The ROAD AHEAD

by Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

EVERYWHERE I go I meet people who tell me that those returned men who decide to take university courses or vocational training are getting the best break of all. The general impression seems to be that these men are going to get a whole lot of something for nothing. This impression is not based on the facts.

In the first place any honorably discharged member of the forces who was qualified for university admission at the time of his, or her, enlistment, or who can qualify within a period of 15 months can take advantage of this opportunity of completing his, or her, education. This training is available on a month-for-month basis depending on length of service. Fees are paid. Travelling expenses are not paid.

The monthly grant, while actually attending the university is $60 for a single man, $80 for a married man, with additional grants of $12 each for the first two children, $10 for the third and $8 for the fourth, fifth, and sixth. These sums are deductible from the serviceman's re-establishment credit. They won't permit the student much more than the bare necessities of life, and certainly won't permit him many little luxuries.

WORK HARD

To get these grants the student is going to have to work, and work hard. He must prove to the university authorities and the government authorities that he is capable of absorbing knowledge and that he is, in fact, absorbing it. If he fails a year, or if the university authorities don't think he shows sufficient aptitude for learning, his grants will be discontinued.

To pass a year at university, especially where he has been away from studies for a long time is no easy matter. It will mean attending lectures all day and studying most of the night. He will be working far longer hours than his comrade who takes a job.

During the "holiday" period—normally five months out of each year—he must find a job to support himself and his family, for the grants will be continued only during the period he is actually attending university and receiving instruction. During that period, if he is a married man he will almost certainly have to be separated from his wife and family.

I SAW TODAY—R. H. Harrison, not in uniform, but in civies, carrying parcels down Jasper; AND Archie Matheson entering a Jasper avenue financial house; C. L. Rodgers earnestly discussing current affairs with a friend; Howard Gimby proceeding north on 101 street; Teddy James ambling setective servicewards; D. Bennett viewing the passing parade from the shelter of a hotel window; Clark Ready waxing enthusiastic about the Y's autumn program.

MAY BE EXTENDED

If he shows ability to absorb the learning then his course will be extended to match the number of months he had in service. If he shows exceptional ability, and the university and government authorities think it would be in the interests of the public, then the grants may be extended beyond his length of service to permit him to complete his course.

In actual dollars received from the government the man, or woman, who can show the ability to be recommended for this additional training will receive more than his, or her, re-establishment credit would amount to. But a person with the ability to do this would have been able to obtain employment which would have paid him, or her, a great deal more than the government pays in educational grants.

The government justifies this expenditure on the grounds that "the leaders of Canada must come, in large measure, from those young Canadians who have volunteered for active service in this war." To deny them this incentive and assistance would be to deprive the country of the services and leadership which these men and women are capable of giving it—and which in most cases, they would have been able to give had their lives not been disrupted by military service.

This country is woefully short of trained men and women. It is short of capable doctors, dentists, teachers, lawyers, engineers, scientists, chemists, and professional men and women of every kind. Surely there is no better field to draw them from than from among those who thought enough of this country and our way of life to risk their lives to defend it.

MANY SACRIFICES

These students will earn every cent they receive. Even when they begin to earn really decent livings for themselves and their families. While they are receiving a wonderful opportunity they must sacrifice many other opportunities to gain it. The money spent in educating them is an investment in Canada's future.

Urges Citizens Aid Veterans' Rehabilitation

Service club members and citizens generally must take an interest in government schemes for the rehabilitation of returned servicemen and put forward suggestions and criticisms if they are to build a lasting peace, Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, told members of the Kiwanis club when he addressed their luncheon meeting in the Macdonald hotel Monday.

Speaking on "Natural Resources and Rehabilitation," the minister said "Canada came through the war one of the most favored countries in the world, but she did not come through unscathed. We must lay practical, fair plans for the years of peace."

PLANS OUTLINED

He outlined provincial government plans for rehabilitation of veterans on Alberta land. By agreement with the Dominion government these men will be given $2,300 debt-free money to establish themselves on the provincial land and at the end of 10 years will be given free title to the property.

Similar agreements have been made for veterans entering fishing, trapping, or lumbering and the minister said that suitable tracts of land have been set aside for these industries.

He also explained the details of the settlement of ex-servicemen on provincial lands in the southern part of Alberta, where a Dominion-provincial irrigation scheme will make the land arrable. The general terms are for the settler to pay taxes and the cost of putting the water on the land and then at the end of ten years' tenure will receive free title.

The speaker was introduced by James Christiansen.

MEMBERS HONORED

Two members of the club were honored at the Monday meeting, R. W. Henry, for his 26 years' perfect attendance record, and W. G. Strachan for his elevation to governor of Kiwanis International for Western Canada.

Plans for a picnic meeting to be held Sept. 5 were announced.

President Thornton Graham was in the chair.

Early Churchman Is Dead in the City

An early missionary in Alberta and a zealous and tireless worker among the native Indians in this province, the Rev. Father Walter Comire, OMI, died in an Edmonton hospital Sunday. He was 80 years old, and until shortly before his death he made the rounds of city hospitals visiting Indian patients.

He first arrived in Alberta in 1891, immediately after being ordained to the priesthood in the Province of Quebec. His first year was spent in the Indian Industrial school of Dunbow and since that time he devoted himself to the welfare and spiritual well being of the Indians.

For several years before the turn of the century he was in charge of Roman Catholic missions surrounding Calgary and was instrumental in the erection of the chapels at Banff, Cochrane and Canmore.

In 1905 he was sent to Lac La Biche, where he served until 1930, when he was transferred to Lake Wabamun where he continued his missionary work with the Indians. In 1935 he retired and came to Edmonton to live, still continuing his work by visiting Indian children in hospitals here.

A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at St. Albert, where burial will be in the Oblate Fathers' plot. Connelly-McKinley are in charge of arrangements.

Worker Injured By Falling Earth

Joe Shiplo, an employee of Little's brick yard, 9120 100A avenue, was taken by Smith's ambulance to the Royal Alexandra hospital Monday afternoon suffering injuries received when he was crushed by falling earth during clay-bank undermining operations, police said Tuesday.

The injured man had been working in a clay pit southwest of the yards with Joe Schabbuhi, 9614 102A street, when one side of the pit bank caved in, hurling him to the ground. It was necessary for fellow-workers to literally dig Shiplo out of the piled soil, police said.

Shiplo suffered face and chest injuries which were said to be not serious.

RETURNS.—Stoker John S. Guthrie, son of Mrs. Bernard S. Guthrie, Annamoe Apartments, who returned to Edmonton Tuesday morning. He was one of the survivors when his ship was torpedoed during the invasion of France. Recently he has been stationed at an eastern Canadian port.

Sees Edmonton On Main Lines Of Air Travel

Edmonton will be a main link on the proposed airline route stretching from South America to Russia and the Orient, in the opinion of Stadhan Acker, Denver, Colo., aviation expert, who arrived here Tuesday in the course of a survey which will take him through to Alaska. He is accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

Mr. Acker is aviation consultant to the City of Denver and to the Denver Chamber of Commerce, and during his visit here will confer with the aviation committee of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

PIECEMEAL FLYING

He said that the proposed "Sunshine International Air Route is now being practically flown but it was being done piecemeal, and we can never hope to get maximum use of the route with broken service."

THE ROUTE

The proposed route would enter the United States at Galveston, or Houston, Texas, continue through Denver and intermediate points to Great Falls and finally through Alberta to Alaska. He said that Galveston and Houston have just been declared ports of entry by the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board, but are not in use yet.

Most of the remainder of the route is being flown, he added, but there are some broken links, and at present it is split up between numerous companies.

Mr. Acker said that on this trip he is trying to create interest in the proposed route. Denver, he added, is not taking the leadership in this matter, but hoped only to assume a major role and responsibility. He said that Denver was particularly interested because as the use of the route is increased it will mean more traffic to such a connecting point.

ROUTE DEVELOPMENT

Development of this route would mean that 7,000,000 people in the United States, east of the Rockies, would be provided with a shorter distance to travel than if they took the route by way of Seattle, or an alternative route by way of Minneapolis. This great population would be penalized if they had to use other than the Sunshine route.

Mr. Acker said the route should be recognized as an important one because of its great circle possibilities. It was believed that there would be sufficient traffic to justify regular schedules and eventually frequency of schedules.

He commented also on the Alaska highway and its great appeal to the tourist minded.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the announcement by the provincial government that farmers may shoot ducks which are damaging grain crops?

THE ANSWERS

W. D. GRAIG, barber: In these times I am all for it. Farmers get little enough return for their crop anyway and the addition of duck to the diet will put off a little further the meatless Tuesdays and Fridays. Should it ever become necessary for the farmers to observe those days.

TED WORMSBECKER, sporting goods dealer: I don't agree with it. The amount of crop which ducks might destroy in this part of the country would be negligible anyway. Our wild life is not sufficiently numerous that we should permit any slaughter of it.

MARVEL COLE, hotel desk receptionist: It's certain that returns from the crops are going to be low anyway and why should the farmers have to suffer in order that the ducks should eat? I agree with the government's policy.

Widely-Known Farmer Dies in South America

Word has been received here of the death in Buenos Aires, Argentina, of William J. Jackman, former well-known Alberta farmer. He was 73 years old.

Born in Leeds, Yorkshire, England, Mr. Jackman came to Canada in 1899. Prior to leaving England on account of ill-health he was private secretary to Lord Leverhulme.

He took up farming east of Edmonton in Clover Bar. In 1918 he became secretary of the Assessment Equalization Board for the province of Alberta.

WITH WHEAT POOL

During the formation of the Alberta Wheat Pool he was one of the organizers, and was made secretary of the first board. Later he was appointed to the board of the central selling agency of the three western wheat pools, and as their representative was delegated to organize the wheat producers of the Argentine. While in the Argentine he became interested in the fact that since Argentina, itself, had no storage facilities the wheat producers of that country found it necessary to dump their grain on the open market.

For several years he devoted his time in an endeavor to arrange for a controlled distribution. On behalf of a Canadian elevator construction firm he drew up a contract with the Argentine government providing for a number of country elevators and terminal facilities.

However, a revolution and consequent change of government resulted in the repudiation of the contract. Shortly after this he was asked to accept the position of economic representative for the imperial economic committee regarding the British, Indian and Canadian governments.

ADDED RESPONSIBILITY

The Argentine's peculiar position as an unfriendly neutral gave to his work during the war years an added responsibility. Mr. Jackman was active in this capacity until a week before his death. Arrangements are being made to have his body brought to Edmonton. Howard and McBride funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

League Sponsors Successful Party

The North Edmonton Community League held a bonfire and wiener roast Saturday night for the children of that district, on the community grounds. It was free to all, and sponsored by the social committee. The weather was not favorable, but a large number turned out for the event.

As there was no V-J Day celebration in North Edmonton a dummy Jap was hung up and burned which caused some excitement. The older children said, "put an atomic bomb under him." There was to be a band and community singing but the rain prevented this. All the children received their fill of buns and wieners and went home happy.

The North Edmonton Community League is putting on a mammoth sports day on Labor Day. Look for further announcements and programs.

To Sell Flowers For War Services

Edmonton War Services Council will have more funds to carry on valuable work with disabled veterans after the sale of the dahlias and gladiolus to be exhibited by the Edmonton Horticultural Society in the Market Building on Thursday.

City auctioneers are donating their time and the flowers exhibited will be sold to the public, entire proceeds to go to the council earmarked for the entertainment and comfort of the returned men in hospitals.

The public is invited to inspect the blooms on Thursday and to take part in the bidding. The exhibition opens at 10 a.m. and the flowers go on sale in the afternoon. Admission is free.

IN NEW POST.—Lt.-Col. H. K. Brown of Barrhead, and Edmonton, who recently was appointed naval command dental officer, Atlantic Coast. He has taken his new post after serving for 13 months as command dental officer for the navy and army in Newfoundland. Previously he was dental medical officer for the RCAF at Calgary. In his new capacity, he commands 96 dental officers appointed to Canadian naval bases along the Atlantic coast, ranging from Bermuda to Newfoundland and inland to Montreal. His staff also includes 35 dental mechanics and 67 WR CNS assistants. At HMCS Peregrine, Halifax, where headquarters for the command is located, one dental clinic utilizes seven officers on discharge routine only. A graduate of the University of Alberta, where he at one time starred in such track and field events as hammer throw, javelin and discus, he practiced at Barrhead, prior to enlisting. He is a former member of the Alberta Legislature.

City Council Will Discuss Salary Boosts

A special meeting of the city council is being called next Tuesday to deal with proposed extensions to the power house generating plant, and also with a proposal to increase the salaries of the city commissioners, superintendents of civic departments, and their assistants.

Other matters likely to be submitted to this meeting will be a bylaw governing the hours of sale of gasoline in the city, and the authorizing of contracts in connection with extensions at the Royal Alexandra hospital, and the street railway plant.

TO STAY WORK

In connection with the hospital extensions the commissioners concur in a recommendation by Maxwell C. Dewar, city architect, that the erection of the paediatric wing of the hospital be not proceeded with at present. This recommendation is made because the bids now in for the construction work are greatly in excess of departmental estimates for this work.

With regard to the erection of a new boiler house at the Royal Alexandra hospital, Mr. Dewar reported that only one bid was received, that from the Poole Construction Co. Ltd., for $32,668.

As the need for the new boiler house is so urgent he recommended that this contract be awarded to the Poole Construction Co., and the city commissioners have intimated to the company that the work will be proceeded with.

COMPLETE COST

It is estimated that the complete cost of the boiler house with new equipment will be approximately $105,000.

The bids received on the construction work of the chronic patients hospital were: Poole Construction Co. Ltd., $237,912, J. C. Haddow, $249,000.

Fractures Leg

Andrew Lozinik, believed to be a resident of 9662 102A avenue, suffered a fractured leg early Tuesday when a piece of engine-watering equipment fell and struck him about the left side of the body at the South Side VNR yards. The injured man was rushed to the Royal Alexandra hospital by Smith's ambulance.

Auxiliary to Legion Helps War Veterans

Since the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion was formed in December, 1943, it has provided entertainment as well as comforts, counsel and other benefits to veterans, Mrs. W. T. Rice, secretary, said Tuesday in reviewing the work of the auxiliary. Patients at Canadian Army hospitals received special attention.

During the winter months the auxiliary held two concerts a week. These will be resumed next month.

PICNICS HELD

Bus trips and picnics in the summer months were held so as to give the men plenty of outings during the fine weather. The trips have taken the men to the government farm at Oliver and two picnics were held at White Mud Creek. A visit was made to the Silver Heights peony gardens where each man was given a bouquet of flowers.

During exhibition week the men were taken to the organization's concession on the fair grounds and were given hot dogs, drinks and entertainment.

On V-J Day they were taken for a bus ride through the Beverly district before appearing on Jasper avenue to join in the celebration. Later they were taken to the Welcome Home hut at the CPR station, where supper was served.

The funds for all these outings come from bingos and raffles sponsored by the auxiliary.

To Aid Troops

Funds raised by the Federation of Community Leagues, from the wood-carving exhibit, held in the Hudson's Bay Company last February, were used to buy a radio, record player, and a number of records. These are now in the lounge at the Colonel Mewburn Pavilion of the University hospital.

The exhibit, which was of work by Rice Sheppard of Edmonton, and represented five years' work.

BACK HOME.—Lt. C. R. Lader, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lader, 10703 125 street, who returned home on leave over the week-end. He is signal officer on the St. Pierre, one of the five Canadian frigates which took part in the surrender of 15 German U-boats off the coast of Norway. He was one of a boarding party which took over the submarines and for 48-hours commanded one of the U-boats which he brought into port under its own power and with a prize crew aboard superintending the operations of the German engine room artificers.

Wives Should Prepare For Embittered Mates

Husband Who Returned On a Furlough was Fine For a Day Then Began Finding Fault and Criticizing Everything His Wife Did

A young couple had been happily married for four years. Then the husband joined the army, and for more than two years he has been overseas. During all of that time the wife has worked hard to keep the home fires burning and to take care of the baby, and they have both solaced themselves by writing love letters to each other and planning for the day when he would come home. At last their dream came true. The husband returned on a furlough. There was an ecstatic reunion for a day, then the honeymoon and began finding fault and criticizing everything his wife did. She had gotten fat. She had let down on her cooking and the biscuits didn't taste as they used to. And why didn't she manage the baby better? And what had become of his fishing tackle that he left in a box on the top shelf in the closet? And, for heaven's sake, why did her mother pick out this time, of all times, to come on a nice, long visit?

TYPICAL OF MANY HOMES

And the wife, who had worked like a slave to do the cooking and washing and ironing and baby-tending, who had pinched every penny so that they would have something to go on when the war was over, and who had been lonely and heartsick, and who was simply living for the praise she expected her husband to give her for the way she had carried on in his absence, is hurt and angry and bewildered and doesn't know what to make of the situation.

This little story, which has its duplicate in tens of thousands of homes, is part of the tragedy aftermath of war, for it is something that is bound to happen in a world where nothing is static, where everything goes on for better or worse, and there is no magic that can ever bring back yesterday to us.

It gives a final note of pathos to the longing of the men who are enduring all the hardship of war, for everything at home to be kept just as they left it. They don't want a chair changed, or for Mom and Pop to grow a day older, or for their sweethearts and wives to even get a new hairdo. And especially they want to have exactly the same emotional reaction to everything and everybody that they had when they parted.

And this cannot be. The little home town doesn't look so glamorous to those who have seen gay Paree. Slap-dash housekeeping gets on the nerves of those who are used to military precision. And even those they love have faults and foibles they never noticed before.

BEEN PARTED

No husbands and wives who have been parted for any length of time can ever take up their marriage where they laid it down and tie the two ends together so there will be no knots in the matrimonial bond. There will be difficulties that they have to smooth out; new adjustments that they have to make; disappointments that they will have to get over, for in their absence each will have idealized the other and clothed them with a perfection they never had.

This is a truth that war wives would do well to bear in mind and for which they should prepare themselves. For their husbands are not coming back to them the same men who went away. Some of them who have been through the hell of war will come out be-angels, but most of them will be nervewracked, tired men, bitterly disillusioned at finding the world hasn't turned into an earthly Paradise, but is just the same old hard job it has always been.

It is going to take a lot more tact and charm to negotiate a second honeymoon than it did a first, so war wives had better be getting ready for it.

FUR ARMOR—Fur shields to make cloth coats weather-defying as well as decorative as a style idea borrowed from the ancient knights for fall and winter fashions. Carrying out this medieval motif is the midriff coat of creamy beige woolen shown above, with a fur shield of beaver in plastron-fashion onto a collarless bodice.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Someone has started a rumor in regard to bridge rules which I would like to officially deny. The National Laws Commission is the body that writes the rules of bridge, and as chairman of that commission I can assure you there is no contemplated change in the no trump count. It is 40 for the first trick and 30 for each trick thereafter. Thus with 60 on part score, if you bid and make one no trump, you make your game.

The contract of three no trump on today's hand was a sound one and was generally made in a New York duplicate game, but one East player was able to defeat it. East put up the queen of hearts on the first trick, not the ace. If South held both the king and jack, he reasoned, any play he made was immaterial. If South held only the king, he could lose nothing by the play of the queen. South felt he must win the trick. Then when he counted his tricks, he saw that his one chance to make the contract was to find the hearts evenly divided. He led a diamond, East took the ace and returned the ace with another heart. West took the setting trick with the long heart. Of course South could have made the contract by playing low on the first lead.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

What children can and cannot eat during the hot weather is always a moot question.

Adults without children are always prone to say, "Oh, I don't see why that would hurt him?" when the food in question is one they would like to give to the baby. And by "baby" I mean the child from six to twenty-four months of age.

There are children with iron stomachs who can digest anything at any time. They are no criteria of what foods are good or bad for children; neither is the individual who has a "weak" stomach and poor adjustment to new foods. But for the average child there are foods which do him no particular benefit or may be highly indigestible to him. These are certainly to be avoided in hot weather.

All foods with a high fat content are to be viewed with suspicion. Fat is slow to digest. While it remains in the stomach the child is not hungry and if more food is given to him, his digestion of it is slowed up. So be wary of meats containing a high proportion of fat such as pork, or such poultry as goose or duck. Sausage, because of its indeterminate contents and its very high seasoning, does not belong in the diet of children.

Sweet corn, delicious as it is, demands good chewing to digest its starchy content. Children are sketchy chewers so corn, either on the cob or in the can, is out for them. Also cucumbers, radishes and pickles of all kinds.

Of the fruits, in general, all those which are highly acid, or under-ripe or over-ripe are taboo. Seedy fruits should be cooked and sieved. It is safer in summer heat to give the baby only fresh fruit juices and cook all the other fruits served.

Small children should not have such concentrated sweets as candy. They should not have chocolate or nuts, both of which have a high fat content. Many children are allergic to chocolate (adults, too), however much they like it.

Hot breads are taboo because children do not chew them properly and they make an undigested mass in the stomach. Such foods as marshmallows belong in the same category of foods too easy to swallow without mastication.

Tea, coffee and cola drinks are not for children. Soft drinks are harmless usually if not drunk to excess. It goes without saying that no conscientious parents would give her child any drink containing alcohol.

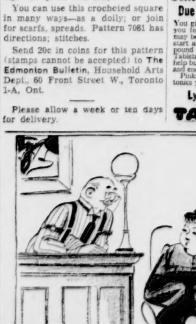

Our leaflet, "Diet from One to Two Years," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

THE HARMLESSNESS OF BATS

Recently a correspondent asked how he could drive bats out of the attic so he could close a small opening in the roof and keep them out. I suggested that he blaze away at them with an air rifle about dusk till they leave the attic, then close the opening.

Another correspondent has a better answer:

Dear Sir:

We kill bats, useful snakes and lizards, useful spiders, dragon flies, useful hawks, owls and other predatory birds and mammals merely because we are afraid of them or don't like them or feel sorry for their prey.

Bats in the United States, most of Mexico and Canada are all insectivorous. There are no fruit bats or vampire (blood lapping) bats in the United States. The bats in the United States carry vermin but not the kind of vermin that will in any way bother humans. Bats carry no bedbugs (Parade of the Animal Kingdom, p. 536, Hegner, Smithsonian Scientific Series No. 9, p. 320). Bats eat mosquitoes. Mosquitoes carry parasitic diseases as many soldiers and sailors returning from the Orient with malaria and other such diseases know. Most of our U.S. mosquitoes do not carry malaria, but in some parts of the south the malaria-carrying mosquitoes keep up a pretty serious sickness and death rate from malaria.

It would seem that we ought to encourage the bat, as a useful friend to man. Bats kill lawn moths, June bugs, and many other destructive insects. Bats congregate thickest where there are the most insects.

Personally, I'd be glad to have bats nest in the attic if I lived near mosquito-breeding pool, pond or other stagnant water.

If the bats must be excluded from the attic the easiest way to discourage them is by keeping a very bright light in the attic night and day, using creosote paint freely (bats do not like the smell), or

Cheaper Air Travel Is Declared Goal

MONTREAL, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Lord Winster, minister of civil aviation in the new British Labor government, said in an interview here yesterday that civil aviation in the future must be brought within the reach of larger sections of the population which cannot now afford the benefits of high speed at high prices. "We have got to find some way of cheapening the cost of flying," he said, "and that is one of our aims. It is no good having India 16 hours away from Britain by air if it is too expensive for most people to fly there."

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Crowd relaxation and fun into your holiday—right in your own back yard.

If the day is hot, use this sugarless summer julep to add pleasure.

SUMMER JULEP
(Serves 6)

Two tablespoons tea, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, 1 teaspoon grated orange peel, 15 to 20 mint leaves, 2 cups boiling water, ¾ cup honey or syrup, 3 cups orange juice, 1 cup lemon juice, 1 unpeeled sliced orange, mint sprigs.

Combine tea, grated citrus peel and mint leaves. Pour boiling water over them and let steep about 5 minutes. Strain, and add sweetening. Stir to dissolve. Cool. Add orange and lemon juice. Pour over cracked ice in 6 tall glasses. Garnish with orange slices and top with sprig of fresh mint.

Cover a pair of boards mounted on sawhorses, or a table with an honest red and white checked Irish linen tablecloth. It's gay and sturdy and not harmed by a brief shower, gust of wind or overturned soda bottle. Serve food in sturdy kitchen containers. Use a preserving kettle for carbonated beverages. Drink out of the bottle. Use a dishpan for wedges of watermelon to be eaten by hand. Chill whole melon and drinks with heaps of ice.

TREE OF PRETZELS

Make a pretzel tree with a few branches from the lilac bush, or some other shrub. Strip off the leaves, trim the over-long branches and plant in a pottery bowl or flower pot filled with sand. Then hang with dozens of glistening brown, salt-flecked pretzels, threading them on each limb and twig.

When the picnic is over, you'll be delighted to discover that there are no dishes at all to wash—just a few forks and a few knives and forks.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Sliced peaches, ready-to-eat cereal, coffee cake, apple butter, coffee, milk.

Back-Yard Picnic: Assorted sandwiches wrapped in waxed paper, pretzels on "pretzel tree", tomato, green pepper and cabbage slaw in wooden bowl, iced watermelon wedges in dish pan, oatmeal cookies, assorted carbonated beverages in pail of ice, straws, pot of coffee.

Dinner: Deviled stuffed eggs in tomato sauce, baked potatoes, garden peas, corn on cob, enriched bread, butter, steamed blackberry roll, lemon sauce, coffee, milk.

Warning TO HOUSEHOLDERS ABOUT NEXT WINTER'S FUEL

All kinds of solid fuel will definitely be scarce next winter. Even if you have a major portion of the winter's supply in your coal bin you MUST save to make it stretch out to the limit. To get the utmost from your furnace and keep the heat indoors check over these suggestions of things you can do, or get done.

1. Clean Your Furnace
Have your furnace thoroughly cleaned before lighting the fire. Scale should be removed from inside surfaces. Chimney and smoke pipes also should be cleaned. When burning Soft Coal, furnace should be cleaned every week. A soot deposit 1/16" results in a one-third waste.

2. Keep Your Furnace in Good Condition
Badly fitting doors and cracks allow air to enter where it is not needed. This air burns your fuel too fast and cools off the heating surfaces. Refit the doors, cleanouts and dampers, and fill cracks with furnace cement.

3. Use Your Fireplace in Spring and Fall
Use your fireplace, if you have one, instead of lighting your furnace during Spring and Fall. It will take the chill off the house and shorten your furnace heating season. Close damper when fireplace is not in use.

4. Caulk Window and Door Frames
For small cost you can save fuel by caulking the space between the brickwork and the window or door frames.

5. Use Storm Windows
By employing storm windows you can save much of your fuel. To be effective they should fit snugly. Put them up early.

6. Weatherstrip Doors and Windows
If your windows are draughty, use weatherstripping. Paper, rags, or cheap cotton batting can be used if regular weatherstripping is not available.

7. Seal Chimney Leaks
Seal all heat leaks in the heating system and the smoke pipe connection with the chimney. A little stove cement will do the trick.

8. Repair Insulation
Insulation on hot water and steam pipes and boiler should be repaired to prevent heat loss in basement.

9. Take Care of Hot Water Tank
An insulating jacket on your hot water tank will save heat. At frequent intervals drain off any accumulation of sludge through the tap provided.

10. Don't Let Taps Leak
Use hot water sparingly. See that your taps do not leak.

This is your warning. If you fail to take it seriously, you and your family may have a cold home next winter.

Blood Donors' Clinic Served Vitally in War

An institution which has served vitally through the war years to save the lives of countless men on the battlefields has terminated its activities.

On the night of Aug. 21, the Blood Donor Clinic in the basement of Mellonall United church accepted its last donations and in accordance with instructions received from headquarters in Eastern Canada, is closing. The Mobile Blood Donor Clinic also is suspending operations. At present, there is sufficient blood serum on hand in Canada to meet all veterans' and emergency needs for at least six months. A three-month survey of the blood needs of all hospitals throughout Canada will be made immediately should the necessity for a peacetime national blood donors service arise.

MANY GROUPS

Members of the Junior Hospital League, the Alberta Women's Service Corps, registered nurses, VADs, women in attendance at the clinic centre, housewives who left their homes, children and household duties to attend to this vital part of the war work cannot be praised too much for their share in the splendid effort put forth and results attained by the Edmonton Blood Donor's Clinic. A gratifying feature lies in the fact that from an amount of 20,000 donations of blood which were processed every week, about 200 can be directly attributed to the Edmonton centre.

Playing a vital part in the work of the friendly, informal centre which has directly affected the lives of men on distant battlefields, have been Dr. Ida Tupper and Dr. Margaret Collins, who have been on duty at every session of the clinic. Miss Doug Turner, who was in charge of 22 registered nurses and six VADs.

COMFORT FOR DONOR

In each instance, the comfort of the donor, both before, during and after the donation of blood, was thoroughly prepared and thought fully carried out. Members of the Junior Hospital League served the donors tempting luncheons and if they were a bit shaky or in a hurry they were driven in their point of destination in the clinic car. Mrs. F. A. Stewart Dann, officer commanding the Alberta Women's Service Corps was in charge of transportation. This corps also took the full bottles of blood to the University of Alberta the empty bottles to the Royal Alexandra hospital for sterilization, and did the special covering of the bottles and attaching the tubes and needles.

MOBILE CLINIC

Four women to whom the Mobile Blood Clinic became as much a part of their living as their own home, were Miss Ellen T. Hurst, a bachelor of science in nursing teaching and supervision, who has been five years on the staff of Dalhousie Medical School Canada blood clinic; Mrs. H. R. Evans, a graduate of the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh, Scotland; Mrs. K. P. Wood graduate nurse, and Miss Barbara Harrow, graduate of the Ottawa Civic hospital. With the mobile clinic, these women have travelled more than 4,000 miles, taking multiple donations from donors who came often from long distances from the clinic's stop and working strenuously in this branch of the Red Cross which made possible for people in outlying districts to send their life blood to men on active service. Miss Hugill has had a full time job with the Red Cross, while the others gave of their time voluntarily.

Members of the Red Cross at points where the clinic stopped, and those who staffed the commissaries under supervision of the women's auxiliaries to the churches, aided vitally in making the clinic's work a success. The local Red Cross group made all necessary arrangements before the clinic arrived, supplying the beds and arranging for nurses, informing donors of their date and making appointments. At the commissary the donor was served coffee and toast.

220 DONATIONS

In the records of the mobile clinic, an average of 220 donations a week has been recorded, the largest number being 429 in Camrose, the work of the women has been hard, exacting and tiring and at places where it has been impossible to obtain nurses to assist the staff, other women have helped out. The clinics have been held in community halls, churches and Masonic Temples, but wherever they settled for both you, the hospitality and welcome dished them could not set the weariness that followed the long hours of work well done.

It is permissible to state, that, without the lifesaving work of the blood donor local and mobile clinics, many more lives, other than those which have appeared on the casualty lists, would have been lost.

TOOK ACTIVE PART.—Mrs. John Turner who played an active part in making a success of the Edmonton Blood Donors' Clinic. She had charge of 22 registered nurses and six VADs.

BUTTER PRICES

No. 1, 35; No. 2, 33; No. 3, 31.

CREAM PRICES

Prices for cream delivered to Edmonton creameries: Special grade, 42; No. 1, 40; No. 2, 35; off grade, 30.

All prices include government bonus of 10c to farmers.

EGG PRICES

Dealers now paying to country shippers: A large, 36; A medium, 34; A pullet, 28; grade B, 24; grade C, 16.

Wholesale to retail: A large, 43; medium, 41; A pullet, 35; B, 31; grade C, 25.

Retail to consumers: A large, 49; A medium, 47; A pullet, 36; grade B, 38; grade C, 32.

A feature of the Edmonton egg market is a much stronger tone for grade A stocks supported by an advance in value of three cents per dozen for grade A large, medium and pullet. Percentage of grade A through registered stations for the past week averaged 41 per cent., and supplies of this grade are short of demand from local and outside markets. Some pullet eggs from new flocks are arriving but are light in volume. Egg receipts through registered stations show a decrease of 13 per cent. from last week. Five lots were delivered to the local drying plant during the past week, with one carlot C to Saskatoon, also one to Winnipeg. Also one car grade A large, medium and grade B rolled to Toronto. Two large shipments went to Prince Rupert and Northern Projects. Deliveries to local army camps were on an equal basis with last week. Local retail demand continues very good, influenced by the two meatless days per week.

POULTRY PRICES

The live poultry market continues fairly active, with receipts 196,022 pounds for the province, being a decrease of 11 per cent. from the previous week. Indications are that producers are saving suitable yearling stock for good production. Quality of fowl arriving continues good, and that of chicken generally showing lack of special feeding for a fat finish. Some excellent quality lots are being received. There were no export carlot shipments during the week. One large lot of frozen chicken moved to Prince Rupert.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—Assorted stocks continued to reach for eight-year highs in today's market although light selling on the lengthy recovery was sufficient to stall many leaders. Investment contingents still were buoyed by the post-war business outlook, the speed-up of reconversion in most lines and predictions of 1946 ta cuts for individuals and corporations.

Trading Is Active On Winnipeg Mart

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28.—(CP) — The sale of 200,000 bushels of rye for export to Belgium stimulated trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, and futures prices closed 2⅛ to 2¾ cents higher with Oct. at $1.54; Dec. $1.45¼-⅜, and May $1.43⅜-½.

Trading was active and shippers and buyers took all offerings.

Other export business included a cargo of wheat, about 300,000 bushels of wheat sold for relief shipment to Europe and the sale of flour, equivalent to about 200,000 bushels of wheat, for shipment to South America.

This Week In Farming

Every Tuesday by Stanley A. Williams

Shortage Good Quality Seed Is Indicated by Government

Shortage of good quality seed oats and barley for 1946 planting was seen in Edmonton Tuesday by A. M. Wilson, provincial field crops commissioner.

Unless prompt action is taken to obtain seed, difficulties may be experienced as there is a very strong demand for oats and barley, Mr. Wilson points out.

Farmers should select and save cleanest parts of a crop at harvest time, the offical states, and these selected parts should be threshed and stored separately.

ARRANGE FOR SEED

Farmers who have been unfortunate in the loss of their crops through hail, drought or other causes, should arrange, with neighboring farmers if possible, to obtain the seed they may require for another year. Some may have sufficient grain held over from previous years that could be cleaned to suitable grades. If local supplies are not available the Alberta department of agriculture will make every effort to locate some.

Oats and barley are generally low in yield. There is an exceptionally strong demand, and unless prompt action is taken to obtain seed, difficulties may be experienced.

ROT OF ONIONS

Neck rot is a serious disease of onion bulbs, appearing after they have been placed in storage. It is caused by one or more species of fungi which produce a softening of the scales, beginning usually at the neck, more rarely at the base or at a wound. A gray felt-like growth later forms on the rotting scales accompanied sometimes by black kernel-like bodies.

The initial invasion of the onions usually takes place in the field when the tops have been broken down or after they are removed. The reason for this, says R. J. Ledingham, Dominion laboratory of plant pathology, Saskatoon, is that the causal fungi are weak parasites and do not actively attack a growing plant.

The critical time, then, is confined to the curing or drying period. This process is important and it is essential that it be thorough, moreover, it is desirable that it should not cover an extended period. Proper sanitation is necessary to reduce infection. Onion tops and diseased bulbs left to rot in the field provide an opportunity for the fungi to multiply and produce spores which are blown around by the wind.

LEAFLET

"The Alberta Dairy Farm Business" is the title of a new bulletin which will be available within the next few days from the Alberta department of agriculture. Information contained in this publication is taken from a study of the dairy costs survey, a co-operative enterprise undertaken by the Dominion and provincial departments of agriculture, the Board of Utility Commissioners and the University of Alberta. Among matters considered are the cost of producing milk on farms, supplying churning cream, cheese milk, and milk for concentrating purposes.

The five chief factors which affect earnings on dairy farms were found to be, high production per animal; high yields per acre; efficient labor; efficient use of capital, and a business above average size. These factors are outlined in detail in the bulletin. The information contained therein together with the numerous illustrations will make this publication a valuable addition to the library of the dairy farmer.

Powerful U.K. Fleet Speeding Toward Malaga

AN EAST INDIES FLEET BASE, Aug. 28—(Reuters)—The Royal Navy battleship Nelson, flying the flag of Vice-Admiral Harold Walker is with a British task force now steaming at full speed for Panang, Malaya, it was officially announced today.

Meanwhile another force of the East Indies Fleet led by the cruiser London is due at Sabang—an island off Northern Sumatra, 308 miles west of Penang—today. Sabang and Penang together guard the northwestern entrance to the Malacca Straits—the way to Singapore.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(CP)—The BBC said last night the British East Indies fleet was steaming toward the Straits of Malacca for "a triumphal entry into Singapore."

The British ships will make "preliminary contact with the Japanese while en route today, the report added.

English buses, which have wandered far from their home routes are doing special duty now in the British zone in Germany, and many soldiers rub their eyes when they see familiar English motor coaches, rolling along the autobahn—that's the German name for motor highways.

Ticklish Task Given British Royal Marines

By DAVID BROWN

IN TOKYO BAY, Aug. 28—(Reuters)—The Allied occupation armada, led by the USS San Diego, sailed into Tokyo Bay today and dropped anchor off the Japanese naval base of Yokosuka, following the arrival of an airborne advance party at Atsuki airfield.

A British landing party of 450, including Royal Marine Commandos, drew the ticklish task of seizing three heavily-fortified islands in Tokyo Bay whose 18-inch guns command the main landing points.

The whole of the landings dedepend upon the speed with which this party draws the teeth of the island forts.

After completion of this initial task the British party will garrison the ammunition and oil storage areas of the naval base until the landings are completed.

Australia Keeps Up Shipbuilding

CANBERRA, Aug. 28 — (CP) — Prime Minister Chifley announced today that Australia would continue building of merchant ships as an aid to employment. In addition, the prime minister said, the government plans to construct additional warships.

Rebuild Vienna

LONDON, Aug. 28 — (CP) — The Swiss radio, quoting a Vienna dispatch, said today the provisional Austrian government had ordered compulsory labor service for all men 15 to 65, and all women 16 to 45, in the reconstruction of Vienna.

MAY END SOIL EROSION

MELBOURNE — (CP) — Final tests are being given to a new drought-resistant native grass evolved near here which it is hoped will put an end to soil erosion. Knee-high and resembling small bamboo, the grass—called Stipa—is perennial and propogated by seeds or roots.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, Aug. 28—(Reuters)—Business on the stock market again today was on restricted lines. Operators still appear disposed to await fresh developments before enlarging their commitments. Undertone, however, remained steady.

Continuing to reflect the cheap money policy, British funds again ruled firm with 2½ per cent. consols more than one pound higher.

Absence of interest resulted in some marking-down among industrials but late selective support reduced earlier losses.

International dollar stocks were firm in sympathy with higher New York advices. Brazilian tractions closing ¼ higher at 29⅝.

In Loving Memory of our beloved father, George Savick, who died August 28th, 1940.
The blow was great, the shock severe.
We little thought his death so near,
Only those who have lost can tell,
The sorrow of parting without farewell.

Canadian Club To Hear Member French Academy

Touring Canada under the auspices of the Dominion War Information Bureau, Prof. Andre Siegfried, University of Paris school of political science, and a member of the French Academy, arrived in Edmonton Tuesday. He will address a meeting of the Canadian Club at the Macdonald hotel on Friday.

He attended the San Francisco conference as a technical adviser to the French delegation, and while there was invited by Dominion authorities to make this tour of Canada. It is his intention to lecture on his findings at a series of meetings to be arranged on his return to France. These lectures will be given at the College de France.

HERE IN 1935

Professor Siegfried first visited Canada in 1898, and was a visitor in Edmonton in 1935 and again in 1939. After his visit in 1898 he wrote a book, "Canada, Its Two Races", and following his 1935 visit, he wrote a second book titled "Canada". Both were translated into English and enjoyed a wide circulation.

28 Jap Warships Await Surrender

OKINAWA, Aug. 28—(AP)—Medium bomber pilots in reconnaissance flights over Japan, reported yesterday that half of Japan's remaining fleet—28 warships—was anchored in the western Kyushu port of Sasebo, awaiting the formal surrender. Although not a shot was fired, the bombers took no chances and did not fly directly over the remnants of the fleet.

Alberta Plans Sale of Horses To Netherlands

Sale of Alberta draught horses to France and The Netherlands is expected to start next week, according to information received in Edmonton by provincial livestock officials.

First sales will take place on the Coronation line in the east-central part of the province. Livestock authorities have been asked to have stock inspectors on the Coronation line early next week, in order to make required inspections of animals submitted for purchase.

A Dominion government buyer, a veterinarian and a clerk will be at each station.

EXPECT MORE BUYERS

It is understood buying for the present will be confined to areas where a shortage of livestock feed exists. More buyers' units are expected in the province later.

The buyers are seeking horses from 1,450 pounds up, gentle and broken to farm work. Animals from three to nine years old are required.

According to recent reports from Eastern Canada, the west European market will take up to 40,000 Canadian horses.

City Officials Endorse Plans Of U.S. Board

Announcement that examiners of the civil aeronautic board in Washington have recommended that Edmonton be used as one of the bases for an air route to the Orient, was greeted by local air line officials as a boost to the city's post-war development.

The board still would have to agree to the proposed route but recommendations of the examiners would go a long way to speeding up board approval, according to Frank Taylor, of Northwest Airlines, military contract carrier for the Air Transport Command, US AAF.

EXCELLENT FACILITIES

Excellent flying facilities for Americans of the southwest Pacific coast were predicted by Mr. Taylor, should Western Airlines get the run from the south into Edmonton and the Northwest Airlines obtain the route through Edmonton to the Orient.

Queried as to possibilities of unfavorable Canadian reaction to granting of these routes to American firms, Lawrence Nichols, district traffic manager for Western Airlines, explained this problem would have to be worked out by the two governments. The same situation would arise should a Canadian airline seek permission to fly into Alaska. He was confident that little difficulty would be experienced.

Plans of American airlines to leave only a skeleton staff here after the end of this month would not be altered by the announcement it was stated. Wartime operations have ceased and there is no need for continuing to hold a large number of personnel here.

"SIR" CHESTER.—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Pacific fleet, is seen with his new decoration, Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross, which he received from the British fleet commander, Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser. For Nimitz the knighthood is honorary.

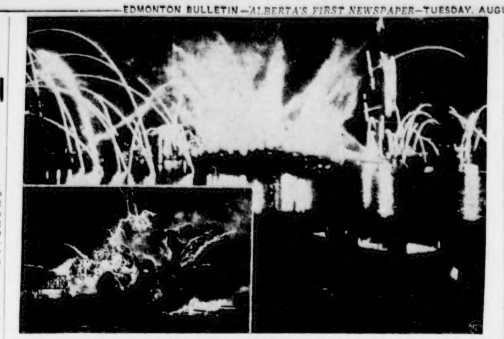

Tax Collection Reveals Increase

A total of $286,509.21 had been collected in current business taxes up to Tuesday, with $102,243.67 of this total being paid in under the first instalment due Sept. 1, it was announced by Thomas Walker, city assessor.

This compared with $140,537.63 paid prior to the first instalment date of last year, an increase of $13,406.04. The collections on Monday totalled $18,272.58 compared with $19,135.07 for the comparable day of 1944.

Take Over Radio

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(Reuters)—New Delhi radio in a broadcast heard here said today that Tokyo radio will be taken over for use of the Allied occupation forces in Japan.

FEARL HARBOR EXPLODES AGAIN—WITH JOY—When the flash came that Japan had surrendered, colored flares, fired from every ship at Pearl Harbor, created the spectacular fireworks seen in large photo. None who saw it could help but be reminded of the grimmer pyrotechnical display of three years, eight months and seven days before, when the Jap sneak attack created the scene shown in inset.

Neighborhood Chapel Scene Of Paugh-Smith Wedding

Summer flowers decorated the Neighborhood chapel Aug. 27 at 7.30 p.m., for the wedding of Miss Helen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith of Rocky Rapids, and Pte. Roger D. Paugh of Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Paugh of Coronation. The Rev. J. W. Babcock officiated. Mrs. W. R. Abell played the wedding music.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of traditional white satin fashioned with a high neckline, tight fitting gathered bodice, full skirt and sleeves coming to lily points over the wrists. Her long veil was held in place by a bridal wreath. She carried a bouquet of gladioli.

FOUR BRIDESMAIDS

The four bridesmaids, the Misses Charity Smith, Mary Dressler, Treva Abell and Mrs. Violet Mortenson, wore gowns similarly styled and of yellow, pink, blue and mauve sheer, respectively. They wore flowers in their hair of a matching shade to their gowns, and wore corsages of cut flowers.

Little Donna Melenson, flower girl, wore a long blue sheer gown, styled as the bridesmaids' flowers in her hair and carried a basket of sweetpeas.

John Law was best man, and ushereites were the Misses Nellie and Neta Abell, twin sisters.

HOLD RECEPTION

After the ceremony a reception to 50 guests was held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Abell, where the bride's mother, receiving, wore an afternoon frock of navy silk and a corsage of cut flowers. Mother of the bridegroom was frocked in floral silk with a corsage the same as the bride's mother.

A buffet supper was served and the bride's table was centred with the three-tiered wedding cake and decorated with summer flowers. Friends of the bride assisted in serving and the Rev. Milton Chugg proposed the bridal toast.

After their honeymoon, the couple will take up residence in Calgary.

PLANS COURSE.—D. H. McCallum, provincial dairy commissioner, whose department is cooperating with the University of Alberta to sponsor a five-month diploma course in dairying. The course begins in November.

Miss Thibault Pledges Vows

In a double ring ceremony, August 25 at 9 a.m. at St. Joachim's church, the marriage was solemnized of Miss Lucille Thibault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Thibault of Edmonton, and Donald F. Grifeen, son of Mrs. M. T. Green and the late Henry Green of Edmonton. Pink and white gladioli and sweet peas adorned the altar. The Rev. Father Fernand Thibault, brother of the bride, officiated. Gideon Pepin played the wedding music and Miss Pauline Thibault, sister of the bride, sang "Ave Maria" and "Ameau de Dieu" during mass.

WITH FATHER

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a gown of heavy white taffeta made with a net yoke with a frill of Chantilly lace extending around the bodice and over the shoulders. The tight bodice had a row of tiny buttons down the back to the waist, which was gathered to a very full skirt. Long sleeves which tapered to a point over the wrists gave the gown a classic appearance. She wore a floor-length veil of net which fell from a Mary Queen of Scots headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink delight roses and sweet peas. Her only piece of jewelry, a pearl necklace, was a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. R. L. Hancock, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. She wore a pale blue gown with net skirt brocaded silk tight bodice and sweetheart neckline. The bodice had a row of tiny buttons down to the waist. Her headdress was a Dutch cap made of net with veil which fell to the waist. Her long mitteths were of blue lace. She carried a bouquet of deep rose astors and white larkspur.

BEST MAN

Roland L. Hancock was best man, and ushering the guests to their seats marked with white bells bows were Joseph and Laurie Green, brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception to 60 guests was held at the home of Mme P. Dow, where the bride's mother, receiving, was frocked in a raspberry afternoon dress with small black feather hat. Her corsage was of yellow roses and blue cornflowers.

The bridegroom's mother wore a black afternoon frock with a pink trim, black hat and accessories. A corsage of pink roses and blue cornflowers pinned at her shoulder completed her ensemble.

The bride's table was set with a lace cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, surrounded by pink tulle, and tall pink and white tapers. Bouquets of pink and white sweetpeas made up the floral decorations. Mrs. C. E. Barry presided at the coffee urn and Mrs. C. E. Garbett cut the cake. Dr. P. Boissonneault proposed the toast to the bride.

HONEYMOON

The couple are spending a honeymoon in the mountains and for travelling the bride changed to a dreamaker suit of powder-blue gaberdine. Her hat was a small pink sailor model and she wore a pink blouse and navy accessories. A corsage of pink delight roses completed her going-away ensemble. Upon their return the couple will take up residence in Edmonton.

Canuck Wren Is Counsellor

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(CP)—"Is it very lonely on the Prairies?" "If I have to leave my wardrobe behind, can I be sure of getting one in Canada?" "It's terribly cold in Canada, isn't it?" "Will I be allowed to take my dog to Canada?" "How do you pronounce Saskatchewan?" "Can I take my wedding presents with me?"

These are a few of the questions British war brides fired at Leading Wren Evelyn Kerr of Fox River, N.S., in the course of an afternoon's work at the Civilian Repatriation Section of the Canadian Wives Bureau.

DIFFICULTIES

There are difficulties about the second question. Young brides seem unable to understand how a kitchen cupboard can possibly take the place of a wardrobe.

"I practically tie myself in knots explaining that Canadian cupboards are wonderful and that we much prefer them to wardrobes. But I don't think they are ever convinced—they hate to leave their wardrobes," Wren Kerr said.

30,000 WOMEN

"About 30,000 Englishwomen have married Canadians," she added. "We figure there are at least 26,000 British women still waiting to go to Canada, not to speak of all the children. They want to know everything possible about Canada and Canadian ways. We try to tell them all we can.

"My job is to give them all sorts of books that will help them."

Wren Kerr arrived in London about a year ago and since that time has come to know Canada as few Canadians do. She has been asked so many searching questions about every Canadian city, town and hamlet that she has made it her business to be able to answer every question.

Interest Grows In Mine Areas At Yellowknife

Interest in the DeStaffany Tantalum Beryllium Mines Ltd., property in the Yellowknife mining district has intensified since the discovery of method for alloying columbite and steel, according to Gus DeStaffany, managing director of the mining company who is in Edmonton.

Columbium occurs in large quantities in the ore containing tantalum on this property, running as high as 30 per cent in some of the dykes, he said.

The rare metal, when alloyed with steel, gives it a tough resilience, hitherto only dreamed of by steel manufacturers.

HIGHER PRICE

The market price for columbite is many times higher than what is being offered for tantalite, according to Mr. DeStaffany, and the latter was considered a valuable metal.

A new power plant for the mine is being shipped from Edmonton and the company plans to mill tantalum-columbium concentrates for shipment to eastern markets. The mining official said he expects the first concentrates will probably be shipped out by tractor train next winter.

Capacity of the mill is about 25 tons a day and the high grade showings of dyke No. 2 on the Moose claim, is expected will yield about 250 pounds of concentrate to the ton.

During the summer workers have been stripping and clearing the surface showings of the ore dykes and it is reported there is enough ore to keep the outfit going all winter.

Mr. DeStaffany said that during the last six weeks he has had letters from metal companies in New York, Toronto and Montreal, requesting shipments of the tantalite-columbite concentrates but he said he has not yet taken any definite action. One of the companies offered to take the mine's complete output.
